NAZIS MOVE WITHIN 13 MILES OF PARIS; TAKE ROUEN, REIMS

Italian Coast Points Attacked

Rome Silent on Action Details Along Frontier

Relations Between Italy and Egypt Become Tense; Duce's Bombers Raid British Naval Base With 'Results.'

BULLETIN

BUCHAREST—(UP)—All Rumanian merchant vessels were ordered today to return immediately to Rumanian ports.

BULLETIN

ROME — (AP) — Anti-aircraft artillery at Turin, Italy's great northwestern industrial center, went into action against enemy planes last night, Turin newspapers reported today. An air raid alarm sounded at 1:30 a. m. (7:30 p. m. Tuesday, EST) and was in force until 3:05 a. m.

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Enemy action against points in northern Italy along the Ligurian coast were authoritatively reported today, but details were withheld pending an official announcement.

The Ligurian coast is that between Leghorn and the French-Italian frontier. Genoa lies on it and the important cities of Turin and Milan are just north of it.

(The Rome reports did not indicate whether the action consisted of air or naval attacks.)

With British planes operating against Lybia from Egypt, an authoritative source said future relations between Italy and Egypt depended on developments in military action.

Italy's intention to refrain from dragging Egypt into the war—provided she remains neutral—as announced by Premier Mussolini on Monday remained thus far without change, an informant said.

Although dispatches abroad said that Egypt would sever diplomatic relations with Italy, the Egyptian minister, Mostafa El Sadek Bey, had not been advised at noon.

"There's no real reason for severance of diplomatic relations between Egypt and Italy," Mostafa said, "but if it is done it will be in accordance with Egypt's treaty of 1936 with Britain." (This is a treaty of military alliance.)

Italy received the first news of the operation of her armed forces today when the high command announced that Italian planes had attacked the British naval base at Malta "with apparent results."

At the same time it was reported that the British Air Force had been driven off in an attempted flight from Egypt over the Libyan border into Cyrenaica, and that two enemy planes had been shot down.

The high command said that the attack on Malta was begun at dawn yesterday and resumed at sunset. All Italian planes were said to have returned to their bases.

Except for these aerial combats, the first day of war for Italy apparently was devoted largely to the deployment of forces at various points where troops took up previously prepared positions.

Announcement that the air force had gone into action came after a night during which the war was brought home to Rome by the shrilling of air raid sirens and the clamping down on defense measures.

The alarm came at 1:40 p. m. (7:40 p. m. EST Tuesday), but whether enemy planes actually flew over the city could not be determined.

SURPRISE: Brazilian Chief Sounds Totalitarian Stand

(By International News Service)

RIO DE JANEIRO—Surprise and speculation in foreign diplomatic circles today followed the declaration of President Getulio Vargas of Brazil that "virile peoples must follow the line of their aspirations," an utterance widely interpreted as giving approbation to the Italo-German axis and its war aims.

Although President Vargas at the same time proclaimed Brazil's neutrality in the present European conflict, his address, which included an attack on "sterile ideals," aroused widespread discussion not only in Brazil but in other South American countries.

The Brazilian president's speech, made in commemorating the 75th anniversary of the battle of Riachuele in which the Brazilians won a great naval victory over Paraguay, followed by a day President Roosevelt's speech calling upon the South American nations to present a united front against Nazi and Fascist aggression.

Declaring that the world was now undergoing vast changes which would transform the future, Vargas said:

"Virile peoples must follow the line of their aspirations instead of standing still and gazing at a structure that is crumbling down.

Thus, it is necessary to understand the new way of life and remove from the path the debris of old convictions and sterile ideals."

The future world, Vargas said, is only for "strong peoples, battle-hardened."

FACES CHARGE AS RESULT OF DEATH CRASH

Shaker Heights Autoist Cited For Unsafe Driving In Death Of Akron Woman.

TWO OTHERS ACCUSED

Charges Filed Against Two Other Motorists, One Following Mishap.

Charges of unsafe driving were filed at Mt Gilead yesterday against Herbert Woolf, 20, of Shaker Heights, driving an automobile which figured in an accident on route 42 yesterday morning in which Mrs. Martha M. Brillhart of Akron, was killed.

Two other motorists, Joseph G. "Jock" Collins, 8 Dawson avenue, and Jay C Taylor, R. D. 4, Mt. Gilead, were cited last night by highway patrolmen for traffic violations. Charges were filed against Collins, golf pro at Westbrook Country club, following an automobile accident.

Charges against Woolf were signed by highway patrol officers and filed in the court of Justice of Peace J. B. Bennett in Mt. Gilead. Woolf asked for continuance of the case until June 27, and was placed under bond of $1,000, patrolmen said.

Woolf was returning from Ohio State university with two other Cleveland youths, when his automobile collided with one driven by Clifford H. Brillhart, 47, secretary of the Dime Savings bank at Akron, south of Johnsville on route 42, Morrow county, shortly after 6 a. m. yesterday.

With Brillhart was his wife, who was killed when pinned beneath the wreckage, as the car left the highway and rolled over on its top. Brillhart suffered head injuries and a fractured leg and wrist. He is confined to General hospital where his condition was reported as "fair" today. The Brillhart's were enroute to Columbus.

Collins was arrested following an accident at 11 p. m. last night on route 13, one mile north of Bellville, after his car and one driven

10 TO 1 SHOT

Pont L'Eveque Wins English Derby In Record Time.

NEWMARKET, Eng. — (U.P.) — Fred Darling's Pont L'Eveque scampered to victory today in the abbreviated war edition of the classic English derby.

The Aga Khan's Turkhan was second and Lord Derby's Lighthouse II, the heavily backed favorite, was third.

Pont L'Eveque a 10 to 1 shot, finished three lengths in front of Turkhan, who barely managed to beat out Lighthouse II by a head.

Turkhan was quoted at 100 to 7 and Lighthouse II at 85 to 40.

Ridden by Jockey Sam Wragg, Pont L'Eveque galloped to a new record of two minutes, 30 4-5 seconds, but the mark will not be entered in the record books because of the war time emergency conditions of the race.

War No Respecter of Age

For the third time, this feeble old lady is experiencing the horrors of war and has been routed from her home. She knew war when the Prussians marched on Paris in 1870, again in 1914 and now she's a fugitive again. She is one of more than 2,000,000 persons fleeing Paris before the advancing Nazi hordes.

'Aid for Allies' Goes Into High Gear In U. S.

Congress Speeds Permission to Trade In Arms Equipment for Re-Sale to Embattled Democracies.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—"Aid for the Allies" passed from the slogan stage to a program of action today, as congress tackled the job of implementing President Roosevelt's pledge with munitions for the men on the firing lines and money for hapless refugees.

Leaders on Capitol Hill resorted to legislative short cuts, working the provisions for assistance into the $5,021,619,622 sheaf of national preparedness bills now in the final clearance stages.

Extension of the European combat zone to blanket the entire Mediterranean was ordered by the president, ending American-borne maritime commerce with Italy. Mr. Roosevelt gave fresh emphasis to his views by endorsing a "stop Hitler now" movement.

Both senate and house responded yesterday to the call the chief executive sounded Monday at Charlottesville, Va., for material aid to the Allies and an accelerated preparedness tempo.

The senate voted 67 to 18 to empower him to "trade in" World war weapons—from rifles to field artillery—to manufac-

Nazi Sub Stopped U. S. Ship Off Lisbon, Germans Reveal

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—It was a German submarine which stopped the United States liner Washington at dawn yesterday on its refugee-carrying European voyage, authorized German sources disclosed today.

These informants said that the submarine learned that the liner was on a northern course, headed for Ireland.

The German government was said to have been advised that the ship was going to Bordeaux, France, and other ports and that Germany had not been told until later in the day that she would call at Ireland.

(The liner, carrying 1,020 refugees from the war zones and a crew of 570, was stopped 240 miles northwest of Lisbon, Portugal, early yesterday as she was steaming toward Galway, Ireland, to pick up additional refugees. The point of its encounter with the submarine was about 145 miles off the northwest coast of Spain.)

Questioned concerning the United States position in the war, a spokesman said "Rearming, the economic question and the forthcoming presidential election are all things which do not affect us and hence there is no reason to comment."

That is the formula applied to all American problems, the spokesman said.

Flight of European War Refugees, His Own Escape From Antwerp Bombings Described by Galion Man

Highways Blocked With Fleeing French, Says Patent Attorney.

GALION—The tragic flight of European war refugees seeking to escape death by land and air attacks in Germany's blows at the Allies, and his own escape from Nazi bombings were described vividly today by Paul Adams, former Galion resident, one of 1,907 refugees who arrived in New York from Genoa, Italy.

Adams joined his wife and two children who have been living here with Mrs. Adams' mother, Mrs. Catherine Rigby, while he was in Europe for five months as a patent attorney for the International Telephone and Telegraph company.

He was stationed at Antwerp, Belgium, when it was first bombed, by the Germans on May 10. He left shortly after it was bombed, for Paris, and from Paris he went to Genoa. In Italy three days, the refugees were "jittery" he said, for fear that they would not be able to leave Italy before she entered the war, making escape from Europe almost impossible.

Adams said he believed that the Italian people did not want to go to war against the Allies, but said that the posters about the country published by the army officials and government had caused many of the demonstrations against the Allies.

"Getting into France from Belgium required considerable red tape," Adams related. "At La Panne, a city on the coastal frontier, we waited seven days until the French would allow us to enter. Here, I could see a British warship, stationed four miles out fire at something, but I couldn't see its target.

"So cautious were the French, that I couldn't use a telephone to call the American consulate at a nearby city, and had to have a policeman do the telephoning with not much information gained about getting across the French frontier. After finally getting across the border, I found the roads blocked with refugees to Paris.

GREECE CALLS RESERVES

British Air Raids In North Africa Forecast Action In Mediterranean.

BULLETIN

ANKARA—(AP)—The Turkish government has decided to take no immediate action as a result of Italy's entry into the war but to concentrate on preparations for defense of the country, informed sources said tonight.

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST—Turkey's call of 200,000 additional reserves to the colors was interpreted in Balkan capitals today as indicating that she is preparing to fulfill her pledges today to the Allies and enter the European war—provided Soviet Russia stays out.

Informed sources estimated that Turkey now has approximately 600,000 men under arms, and the small nations of southeastern Europe looked anxiously to their own defenses as the war clouds grew blacker.

Hungary, Rumania and Yugoslavia hope to maintain their neutrality even if Ankara votes for war, but the fate of Greece is closely linked with that of Turkey.

Intense diplomatic activity was in progress in Ankara and Athens.

SUES MAYOR

Ex-Ashland Policeman Goes To Court In Job Fight.

ASHLAND—L. D. Smith, former Ashland city patrolman, filed a mandamus action in Ashland county common pleas court today against Mayor Howard S. Lutz, seeking to force the mayor to appoint him to a post on the city police force.

Smith contends he was laid off last October for reasons not outlined in the statute and by reason of seniority was entitled to a job in the police department when a vacancy was filled last May 22. He states that the post was given illegally to Harry Smith.

The former patrolman asks the court to order Mayor Lutz to reinstate him and permit him to collect back pay allegedly due since May 22. Atty J. L. Mason of Ashland represents Smith.

Berlin Claims Allied Force Trapped Along Coast; Hails Capture of Compiegne, Scene of World War Armistice Dictate.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—The German high command announced tonight that French troops surrounded at St. Valery, on the English channel, had capitulated and that more than 20,000 prisoners had been taken. The captives claimed included one French corps general, one British corps general, and four French division generals.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN — Reims and Rouen have been captured, Allied troops have been trapped on the coast by crossings of the Seine at several points below Paris and German divisions are standing on the Oise, 20 kilometers — 12½ miles — from Paris, the German high command reported today.

Rouen, on the meandering course of the Seine between Le Havre and Paris, was said to have been in German hands for several days.

"The Seine beyond Paris already is crossed by our troops at several points," said the daily communique of the high command.

"One enemy group is cut off near St. Valery and encircled on the coast.

"Northwest of Paris divisions standing on the Oise are 20 kilometers outside Paris and the outer defense positions running along both sides of Senlis.

"Compiegne, scene of the disgraceful armistice dictate of 1918, and Villers-Cotterets are in our hands," said the high command.

It was in a forest near Compiegne that the World war armistice was signed in Marshal Foch's sleeping car headquarters Nov. 11, 1918.

Allied forces on the lower Seine were said to have been pushed across the river with "heaviest" losses.

The German claim to hold Rouen and Reims—cities of more than 100,000 peacetime populations—would represent two great footholds northwest and northeast of Paris, respectively, with which to reinforce the projected engulfment of Paris.

Rouen lies about 70 miles northwest of Paris on the coastal, lower Seine flank and Reims about 80 miles to the northeast.

Military spokesmen declared that no repetition of the 1914 "miracle of the Marne" could save Paris.

The Nazi air force smashed at shipping in the English channel besides operating as "aerial artillery" for the German advance.

DEVOTION: French Sacrifice Lives to Defend Paris Gates

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)

When you see the epic stand the French poilus are making before Paris in the face of terrific odds, you understand how it is that men can cheer while comrades are dying.

This devotion and sacrifice make it possible still to record that the Allied position is no more serious than it has been for days.

Indeed, the French high command having decided to withdraw to positions south of the historic Marne river, which flanks the capital to the east, the defense should be considerably easier.

Generalissimo Weygand's strategy apparently contemplates also utilizing the Seine, which forms a flank for Paris to the west, as a complementary defense line, although his present front bulges out to the north of the capital.

This Marne-Seine combination would give him the first "solid" front the French have had since the Germans crashed the Allied line up on the Somme and Aisne river early in the offensive. Strategically it is stronger, for the terrain makes it easier of defense.

Whether the Germans will be able to force their way into the beleaguered city depends on how much their stamina has been sapped by the fury of their protracted offensive.

They have the men and materials to turn the trick—but

Hammer Slayer Faces Sentence of Two to 20 Years

JURY CONVICTS OHIO YOUTH OF MANSLAUGHTER

Defense Given Time to File Motion for New Trial At Bellefontaine.

(By Associated Press)

BELLEFONTAINE — Possibility of a 20-year term in Ohio penitentiary or Mansfield reformatory today faced 19-year-old Donald Slater, convicted of manslaughter in the Feb. 1 hammer slaying of Fred Jenkins.

Common Pleas Judge Lawrence Zupp indicated he would not pronounce sentence before Saturday, to permit defense counsel to move for a new trial. The crime carries a two to 20 year penalty.

The jury deliberated nearly four hours before returning the verdict last night. In the jury room were bloodstained blankets, knives, and the hammer with which the state contended Jenkins was beaten fatally.

Slater's testimony that he slew Jenkins in self-defense was attacked by Prosecutor J. Ewing Smith at the close of the 11-day trial. Asserting that Jenkins wore at the time of his death only the same undergarments which covered his body when it was found frozen in a gully near Miamisburg, 75 miles south, Smith asked heatedly:

"Where did Fred Jenkins get the knife Donald says he cut him with?—from his underwear?"

No dates have been set for trials of Mrs Minnie Jenkins, 47, the victim's widow, and her son Merlin, 18, indicted jointly with Slater.

Smith charged that Mrs. Jenkins helped Slater to wrap Jenkins' body in a blanket and drive it to a point near Miamisburg, and that Merlin aided in disposing of evidence.

Mrs. Jenkins is scheduled for a trial by jury, while Merlin has agreed to place his fate in the hands of a three-judge court.

Italy No Longer Popular Name for Texas Community

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The town of Italy, Tex.,—population 1,500—wants to change its name since the country of Italy has gone to war.

Rep. Luther Johnson (D.) Tex., notified the postoffice department to this effect today after Italy's postmaster, George F. Sheppard, asked him how to go about effecting the change.

The post office department, Johnson said, will change the name on petition of the citizens, providing they select a name that does not duplicate the names of another Texas town.

Italy, said Johnson, is a prosperous farming community, and has one resident of Italian descent.

Up and Down THE STREET

Several Mansfield and Richland county teachers may spend a month this summer at a new kind of summer school in the forests of southern Ohio. A number of the teachers are considering enrolling in the state-sponsored "school of the forest" in the Ross-Hocking state forest 15 miles east of Chillicothe. Outstanding educational leaders from all parts of the nation will lecture during the course and teachers will have a chance to study biology, zoology, botany, and geography first hand. Teachers will live in cabins in the woods and have classes in a large assembly hall. The school will be in session during the last part of June and first two weeks of July.

Mrs. Jane Smeltzer over at the Western Union Telegraph office seems to be the official songstress for those singing telegrams—and she has a hunch she was practically razzed into the job. Unlike the telegraph offices of large cities, where an official message singer is always on hand, the Western Union office here had never delivered any of these greetings by song until about three weeks ago, when Mrs. Smeltzer began work during other employes' vacations. She says they kidded her into singing the first one and she's been doing it ever since. This type of message seems to be rapidly gaining in popularity here. In fact, all too fast to suit Mrs. Smeltzer.

They were pretty indifferent to the executive branches of city administration, but were voluble in praise of the big red fire trucks and police department.

$700,000 GOES TO SUBDIVISIONS

Auditor Distributes Largest Tax Settlement In Recent Years for County.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe will distribute approximately $700,000 in tax funds to the county and its subdivisions tomorrow in the largest single tax settlement in the county in recent years.

The funds, collected during the first half collection period for the year, include $676,540 in real estate levies, $40,000 in special assessments, and $5,800 in inheritance tax.

Some of the taxing districts that couldn't wait for the settlement, principally the schools, have already been advanced $252,606, leaving only a small share still due.

Mansfield schools, pressed for funds before the term closed, drew $192,000 of the $202,902 due them, the auditor said. The City of Mansfield was advanced about half of its $105,553 share.

Distribution of funds will include $110,344 to the county government, $337,281 to city and county schools, $136,851 to the cities and villages, and $52,956 to the 18 townships.

The city of Shelby, which has asked for no advance, will receive $23,500, while Shelby schools, already advanced $20,000, will get $15,895 more in the settlement.

In addition to the tax money which will be allocated to the subdivisions, the auditor will turn $17,999 in conservancy tax receipts over to the Mansfield Conservancy district to retire bonds and finance operation of the district. About $10,000 of that amount represents delinquent taxes collected in recent months, Wolfe said.

750 Boy Scouts Arrive Here Tomorrow for 2-Day Camporall

About 750 Boy Scouts from the Johnny Appleseed area will begin arriving at Liberty park at 3 p. m. tomorrow for the annual area Camporall, which continues through Saturday.

The park will be turned into a "tented city" as the Boy Scouts and their leaders camp there for the three-day period.

Highlighting the Camporall program will be the annual presentations of the Hillier Trophy and President's cup, scout demonstrations, and a concert by the Senior high school band on Friday night.

The Hillier Trophy is awarded to the troop making the greatest advancement during the past year, and the troop having the greatest number of new scouts enrolled during the year will receive the President's cup for 1940.

Friday evening's program is scheduled to open at 8:15, and will begin with a brief Flag Day program, according to Floyd Dent, area scout executive. The demonstration will include games and contests. J. Merton Holcombe will direct the high school band for the concert. Parents and friends are invited.

A song fest and a motion picture show is planned for the scouts tomorrow night. Friday at 9 a. m. a kittenball tournament will get underway, and at 1:30 p. m. eliminations in scouting contests, including fire building, first aid and tent pitching, will be held. Finals in the kittenball tournament are scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday. The scouts will break camp at noon Saturday.

The Liberty Park association has made arrangements for the scouts to have free use of all park privileges. The swimming pool will be free to scouts registered at the camporall, and the tennis courts, horseshoe courts and baseball diamonds have been reserved for the boys.

Troop No. 4 and Rover Crew No. 4 of Mansfield will act as host troops. The camporall committee is composed of C. I. Kimmel, chairman, Glenn Pore, Robert Hall, Frank Stahl, J. R. Turner, L. J. Steele, C. G. Silcott, Robert Grabosky and D. D. Monutoya, who will have charge of the evening program.

STREAMS FLOOD FIELDS, WASH WHEAT CROP

3 Inches of Rain Falls In 4 Days In City; New London Hit by Cloudburst.

Farmers in the Mansfield area who were hoping for rain two weeks ago to give the corn a start surveyed mounting crop damage today as swollen streams flooded their lowland fields and threatened heavy damage to ripening wheat.

There was no prospect today of a let-up in the heavy showers before Friday with the forecasters predicting more thunderstorms tonight and Thursday. Thousands of dollars in crop damage has already been caused by the rain.

The Mansfield section was hit by another rainstorm late Tuesday while a miniature cloudburst caused heavy crop damage in the New London area of Huron county.

Nearly three inches of rain has fallen in Mansfield in the past four days, but because it came in a number of showers there has been no serious flood damage.

Unable to get into their fields with plows, farmers watched fast-growing weeds hide their corn and reported that corn is turning yellow from excessive rain.

Farmers said wheat, almost ready for harvest, will suffer heavily from rust and smut unless the rain stops soon.

In some sections corn has not been planted and a few more days of rain probably will make it impossible to plant it in time to raise a crop, it was said.

Scattered sections of northern and eastern Ohio were swept by severe rain and electrical storms Tuesday night. At Zanesville lightning caused damage estimated at $15,000 to St. James Episcopal church. Lightning also hit the tower of the Presbyterian church in Zanesville. Streets and basements were flooded in the city by a 2.29 inch rain.

Lightning struck the steeple of St. Augustine's Catholic church in Barberton, injuring Clarence Morris of Akron who was working inside the church.

Trees were uprooted and streets were flooded at Tiffin and other Seneca county towns. The storm struck southern Huron county and New London shortly before 5 p. m. Tuesday and within a few minutes water was several inches deep on the streets and was flowing into basements.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Broadway Bulletin Board.

James McKinley Bryant, whose "elopement" with Ariene Judge was a recent false alarm, really adores Mrs. Alexis Thompson, (Ann St. George), ex-wife of the youthful millionaire. . . . George Raft, who had a ticket on a Friday plane to New York, canceled it when Norma Shearer said he couldn't go, which has the Hollywood gossips dizzy figuring out why. . . .

Enzo Fiermonte, the pugilist playboy who married an Astor has been drafted into the Italian army. . . . Eleanor Powell is ailing. Nerves again.

Abe Lyman wants $10,000 to settle his Barbary Coast battle with Billy Rose. . . . Bea Ammidown, the pocket Venus, and Clarence Buddington Kelland's boy, Horace, are tra-la-la. . . .

Mary Jane Walsh, Ted Husing and Ernie Holtz were all banged up and scratched but escaped serious injury when their car and another crashed in Jamaica as they were returning from the racetrack. . . .

Archie Stewart, who gave information in the Rubel ice hold-up case, must be "singing" again because he's being rewarded by "eaves" from his prison cell. He was in Lindy's and the Strand Theater a few days ago, chaperoned by a detective.

Tony Martin is getting a terrific play from the debutantes: Thursday, Josephine Johnson; Friday, Patricia Breen. The one who has a date with him tonight gets the first ride in his new $8,000 motor-buggy. . . . Sam Goldwyn is hunting for an assistant. . . .

Matty Fox, vice-pres of Universal Pictures, who is rushing back to N. Y. next week to be near Puk Paaris, will probably learn that she's "85 per cent in love" with somebody else. . . .

Those rumors that the Paul Whitemans are splitting couldn't be sillier. . . .

Whitney Bourne will shortly quit the "Debunker" concession at the N. Y. Fair (she designed the beds the girls fall out of) because she feels the publicity releases reflected, in an undignified way, on her stepfather, Harvey D. Gibson.

Talk Around Town.

Jack Dempsey leaves soon for Hollywood to Forget It All, which means a Powers model will be back here carrying a torch. . . . Gwendolyn Johnson, the late Floyd Gibbons' secretary, waltzed down the aisle with Edward Beatty, a Pennsylvanian, during the past fortnight. . . .

There's a page one story waiting for the reporters at the Government printing office. . . .

Walter Hagen, the golf champ, and June Bently, a beautiful Texas singer now chanting in a Cleveland night club, are yum yum. . . .

El Morocco and La Martinique folded quietly and without announcement over the weekend—just for the Summer. . . .

There's a rumor in German circles that Max Schmeling will visit America soon.

Adelaide Moffett (Mrs. William Buckner) has retired as a cafe singer to await the birth of her baby. . . . Jim Moriarity, the Barberry room's host, has been awarded management of the Berkshire hotel, with Martin Sweeny taking over the Commodore. . . .

Zorina and Balanchine are again breakfasting under the same chimney. . . . Simon Elwes' clipper departure for England will leave Joan Wetmore, the socialite model, sighing. He's the ten-grand-a-throw British portrait painter.

Mary Hanrahan, Edgar Bergen's former secretary, has become his manager, and Dorothy Lamour's. . . . Bergen, incidentally, did his first solo flight over the weekend. . . . Lyle Talbot, who is getting to be the town's most energetic beau, and Ann Staunton, a Riviera showgirl, are yum, yum.

Marie (society lark) Spaulding and Tommy Chatfield have air-conditioned their romance, and she's returned to mooning with Joe Moss, Jr. . . . Real glamor girl of the N. Y. World's Fair is "Pat" Julie, unpublicized blond streamlined model in a midway exhibit. She's from N. J., and her mother calls for her every night.

The Hollywood grapeviners report that Liz (Mrs. Jock) Whitney turned down a role in "When the Daltons Rode" because she wouldn't play second fiddle to Kay Francis. . . . Colbert's elegant eatery lets its hair down with a rhumba band and entertainment.

Al Jolson has found "Connie Bennett (the model-showgirl, not the motion picture actress) one way of forgetting Ruby Keeler's indifference. . . . Martha Wayne, Jerry Livingston's vocalist, is testing for a role in the celluloid "Too Many Girls." . . .

The Arthur Gershwins are lullabying. Leon and Eddie's the 52nd st. club, has bought out the Club Continental, Miami Beach's most successful night spot. Orson Welles' Shakespearean recordings have been banned by the California school board because of his facetious crack about Will and Ann Hathaway. . . .

Vernon MacFarlane's companion at El Morocco and Monte Carlo Friday night was not a chorus girl, not a debutante, not a dowager—but a pet monkey!

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There's such a look in the eye of Jack Sanders that I don't doubt it when he says 250,000 people in the U. S. hardly can wait to see a certain movie.

The 250,000 are American pigeon-flyers. The movie is "The Man From Fleet Street." According to Jack, who should know, this is the most pigeon-y picture ever made. According to Jack and the look in his eye, it's wonderful.

Jack Sanders is in charge of the nursery (horticultural) at the Warner ranch at Calabasas, but right now he's supplying pigeons from his own lofts for the movie. The pigeons, 36 of 'em, are "supported" by Edward G. Robinson, Edna Best, Albert Basserman and sundry other actors and the story is the life of Julius Reuter, founder of the great English news association. Reuter used carrier pigeons in lieu of cables in his beginnings, and had a tough time convincing the skeptics of their worth.

Sanders exudes pigeon lore and pigeon-love. He'll tell you pigeons are very knowing, contrary to popular belief that they don't understand a word.

Sanders won a 275-mile race with one of his birds just the other day. he selected a father-bird who hurried home to take care of feeding a young one while the mother-bird nursed an egg.

Genevieve Tobin is playing in "No Time for Comedy," directed by her husband, William Keighley. Hollywood is notoriously a happy hunting-ground for relatives, and Keighley said, "Never let it be said, etc." So he discouraged the Tobin selection; he tested, tested and tested; Miss Tobin was tested also; Miss Tobin, over Keighley's protests, was selected by the higher-ups. For one reason, i. e. that nobody in town plays a glittering sophisticate with quite the conviction of Mrs William Keighley. Mr. Keighley seems quite happy over it, having done his best to defeat the charge of nepotism.

BRIAN AHERNE is playing the role of a well-intentioned old geezer in "Gribouille," a title you can forget because you won't see it on the marquees. "Gribouille" was a French movie, now being remade by Director Charles Vidor with Aherne, Rita Hayworth and Glenn Ford.

Aherne is playing a role he thought, and insisted, he couldn't play. This is how it came about:

Vidor had just directed Aherne in "My Son, My Son!" One scene in that film—the sequence in which Aherne disguised himself as a miner to study mine conditions suggested to Vidor that the actor could be "Gribouille." Aherne protested. Columbia executives persuaded him to test for it regardless.

"I took the test to prove I couldn't do it," say Brian, "and I didn't convince them. I've taken so many tests to prove I could do parts that this was a novelty. In this one, happily, I convinced myself too. I think it will turn out all right."

Aherne tells a story which illuminates the disconcerting effect of travel on stars whose "best" work escapes appreciation by the masses. On his honeymoon tour with Joan Fontaine, they were discovered in Havana by a crowd of fans who followed them shouting "Captain Furio, Captain Furio!"

"Captain Fury" is the one picture Aherne would prefer to forget, never has been equal to seeing!

Suggests Returning To Aims

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

The child and his parents ought to be the major interest of the PTA. The original purpose of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers was to form groups of mothers who desired to educate themselves to wiser parenthood. This purpose was so stated by the founders, Mrs. Theodore W. Birney and Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst at the first national meeting, in the home of Mrs. Hearst in Washington, D. C., in 1897.

Since then, the PTA has broadened its membership to include father, teachers and anybody else interested. Its objectives have widened to comprise the following:

"To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church, and community.

"To raise the standards of home life.

"To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth.

"To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child.

"To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education."

These worthy objectives are widely approved. However, the average member of the local PTA is not always fully aware of these objectives, nor is he likely to arrive at them should he even attend every meeting of the year. All too often, he supposes that the major purpose of the PTA is to put on public money-raising schemes in order to buy equipment for the school (which should be purchased out of public funds).

Pathetically, a great many school superintendents and principals think that the main purpose of the PTA is to be school-supply Santa Claus, with periodic diversions at drumming up votes in the school district for school bonds and special school tax levies.

About fifteen years ago, there was vigorous emphasis from the National Board down to the local PTA on child development, child guidance, and family relationships, under the general heading of parent education. Better parenthood and happier family life seemed to be the central theme as it was when the organization was founded 43 years ago; parent study groups on parenthood were epidemic America over in the PTA.

Wouldn't it be well now for the local PTA presidents, in planning their programs for next year, to keep in mind the child and his parents?

Casserole Dish Substantial

By BETSY NEWMAN

A GOOD substantial casserole dish accompanied by a refreshing salad, and topped by a frozen sweet is a good June meal in any language.

Today's Menu.

Italian Meat Pie
Orange and Onion Salad
Red Currant Mousse
Oatmeal Cookies Coffee or Tea

* * *

Italian Meat Pie.

Diced cooked meat
Diced cooked potatoes
Diced cooked carrots
Sliced onions
Whole ripe olives
Pastry
Salt
Pepper
Gravy or white sauce

Use equal parts of diced, cooked meat (lamb, pork, veal, beef or chicken), diced cooked potatoes and carrots, whole ripe olives (the smallest size will do), and fill casserole with same. Season with salt and pepper, cover with sliced onions, then pour over all hot gravy or rich white sauce. Cover with pie crust, slit to allow air to escape, and bake in a hot oven until crust is brown.

* * *

Orange and Onion Salad.

Oranges, sliced
Lettuce
Sliced onions
Thin French Dressing

On beds of lettuce arrange sliced oranges, first cut from peel and white membrane, alternately with thinly sliced onions. Serve with French dressing and top with wedges of fresh ripe tomato.

* * *

Red Currant Mousse.

1 quart red currants
1 cup water
1½ cups sugar
1 tbsp. gelatin
2 tbsp. cold water
1 tall can evaporated milk

Strip currants from stems, wash, add one cup water and boil until tender, press through coarse sieve. There should be 2 cups pulp. Add sugar, boil 2 minutes, then add gelatin which has been soaked in the cold water, stir until completely dissolved. Let stand in cold place until mixture is a soft jelly. Whip milk (it's cups cream may be substituted) very stiff, fold in currant mixture, pour at once into ice freezing trays. This makes about 1½ pints, serving 8 generously.

Glycerine is normally present in the fat stored in the body. The average weight of fat in the present-day diet, approximately 100 grams, undergoes in the process of digestion about one-tenth its weight in glycerine.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If the bile is not flowing freely, food may not digest, it may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach, you get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 149 and 234. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Garden Graph

Sucking insects

Sucking insects like aphids weaken and finally destroy plants unless they are checked. These pests pierce the plant's tissue, or cells, with their tiny beaks and then suck out the juice or sap which is the lifeblood of the plant.

As shown in the Garden-Graph, nasturtiums are favorite victims of aphids. Other flowering plants which need constant guarding against aphids are roses, chrysanthemums, asters, lilies and annual larkspur.

Aphids must be killed with a contact insecticide, which smothers them by choking up their breathing pores. Spraying should be done as soon as the first few aphids are noticed, since large colonies of them develop quickly. It is important to do a thorough job of spraying in order to kill all the aphids, otherwise the spraying will soon have to be repeated.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

There was a distinctly sarcastic note in Philip Veritzen's voice as he spoke of my "fantastic reasoning," but it had no sting for me whatever. I was too absorbed in the surprising revelation he was making with its accompanying hope that Mary was now assured of her role, to pay any attention to any personal angle of his talk or thoughts.

It was a hope, however, which I did not dare accept until Philip Veritzen, definitely declared his intention, although the last words he had used would have been conclusive except for the long series of events which had spelled his hostility to Mary. And even if he did bestow the role upon her, I told myself drearily, the action was no guarantee that he would not continue his attempts to break up her marriage to his son.

He was capable of lightning-like changes of plans, I knew. I was sure that his keen eyes had seen the open romantic admiration that Stephen Redfield, the handsome young leading man had given Mary, and I wondered if he might not be plotting to turn that to account as well as the deep-hidden jealousy of Noel for Mary's stage career, which, I was sure, would be no secret to his father's penetrating insight.

"But, of course," Philip Veritzen went on, "while I was virtually sure that Mrs. Graham was drilling her protege secretly in her own version, I had to be certain. So I resorted to an indefensible attempt to have dictaphones installed in their suite at the Hotel Lansfield, of which I happen to be the owner."

"I shall not take up your time by recounting my attempts—and my defeats. Suffice it to say that Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Underwood foi-l-ed me at every tur-r-n," he drawled his consonants melodramatically, "and that I received no information whatever from that enterprise."

"But," he said, and I could pardon the triumphant note in his voice, "I finally did obtain a confirmation of my guess from an impeccable source, but one which I cannot divulge, and which does not matter now."

I did not need my side glance at Olina's faintly crimsoned face to know what was the "impeccable source" he meant. My suspicions were justified. She had spied upon us and reported her findings to her future stepfather. But I was more intrigued by the judicial, appraising glances with which Olga was regarding first her daughter, and then her fiance. Philip Veritzen might be able to fool other people, I told myself gleefully, but he never would be able to deceive his royal-born wife about anything. Nor would her daughter be able to have any secrets from her.

I was suddenly easy about Mary. No matter what either Olina or her future stepfather were planning, they would have to reckon with Olga. And she, I already had learned, was Mary's champion.

But Philip Veritzen was speaking again, and I wrenched my attention back to him.

"I really acquit myself of justifiable pique in my subsequent action," he said. "It really seemed to me that the supreme test of Mary as a trouper would be her ability to go up to the very last minute with the prospect of first giving the stilted version, as she and Mrs. Graham had planned that she do, and then to withstand the surprise and shock of having me announce that she could play the role as Mrs. Graham had taught her to do.

"I acknowledge now that it was a risky thing to do. My artistic curiosity got the better of my sense of justice—not humanity—for no soft emotion has any place in the making of a theatrical star. But,"—he paused triumphantly—"I was justified! Most of you saw how marvellously my son's wife emerged from that ordeal."

My head was raised and my eyes wide, fixed upon him now, as was the gaze of every person in the room. And then with the theatricalism which is so much a part of him, he rose from his chair, walked over to Mary, put out his hands and drew her to her feet. Then with his arm affectionately around her, he drew her to the place he had just vacated, and turned her around facing us.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said and the twinkle in his eye redeemed the words from burlesque, "may I introduce the latest Veritzen star, with my prophecy that she will equal, and perhaps excel, the highest mark set by her predecessors?"

Remember Dad! His Day's Coming

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Editor's Note: Father's Day will be observed this year on June 16.

Father's Day comes only once a year, and we have, most of us, much in the way of oversight to make up to him. It isn't that father is the "forgotten man," as some cynics insist, but he is often so good and generous that the family has a way of taking him for granted.

Last year I wrote a little piece about Father's Day which must have borne fruit in the way of good wishes, even little gifts—things father had been wanting for a long time but was too modest to acquire by the simple game of hinting. Several fathers wrote me letters and said how happy these letters and remembrances had made them, and please not to forget a reminder next year.

Modesty is characteristic of the American father. No member of the family asks so little and gives so much, and in return for the home he provides—and it's a sweating job to keep it going these days—what does he get? What?

Well, sometimes he has a family that isn't ashamed of showing affection, who really love him and tell him so. That is father's complete reward—just a few words of appreciation. But sometimes families have a way of being lockjawed about what they feel for father. He doesn't lend himself to petting, he's almost as lockjawed about his feelings for his family as they are, so the precious words that would mean so much to him are never said.

Families have a way of forgetting—even good, devoted families. Mother has her husband duties; there is so much more to be done each day than she realizes when the day begins. The children are distracted by school duties, or perhaps their first youthful dates.

The older children may have just married, and the new bonds cause the old ones to slacken just a little. So the thoughts of the young husband, or young wife, run along this groove: "This is Father's Day. We'll call him up, or something, but good gracious there's so little time."

Do it now! You may not always be able to call father up and tell him how much you care and how much you appreciate all that he has done for you.

While you're about it, don't you think it would be well to get him a little gift? Something he has been wanting but grudges spending money on. Time is galloping. Write the letter, phone the affectionate message, send the gift while father is here to be made happy. Don't let father be the "forgotten man!"

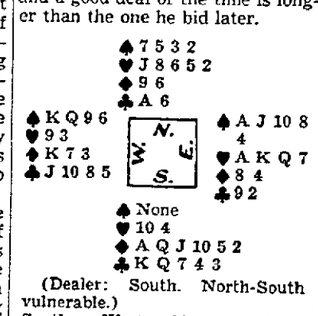
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOW YOUR PREFERENCE

Bidding of two suits by your partner usually means that he wants you to select for him the one that best fits your hand, regardless of how weak your cards may be. The better one, in this case, is not that with the higher honors in it, but the one with the larger number of cards. And if you have the same number in both suits, he generally prefers the one he named first, since it nearly always is at least as long and a good deal of the time is longer than the one he bid later.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1♦	Pass	1♥	1♠
2♣	2♠	Pass	4♠
5♣	Dbl

And to think that North passed! His excuse for not shifting the declaration to 5-Diamonds was that he had the top honor in the other suit. Figured soundly, he should have realized that the ace was just as valuable in a side suit as in trumph, and that South's diamonds might possibly be longer than the clubs, by a margin of six to five.

South was the only player in the entire duplicate game who made that sacrifice bid while vulnerable against his not-vulnerable opponents. Had his partner taken out to diamonds, the contract would have been down only one, with two losing tricks in hearts, one in diamonds, and none in clubs if a third round was ruffed by the diamond 9. The result would have been top for his side, the opponents getting only 200 points instead of the 420 their game would produce. In clubs, the contract was set two, for a bottom score of minus 500, as West got another trick in clubs.

The more you play, the more you will realize how much the safety of a trump suit depends on the number of cards held by the opponents, rather than the honors missing from your side's holdings. When six trumps are out against you, there is usually danger; when only five, there is usually comparative safety.

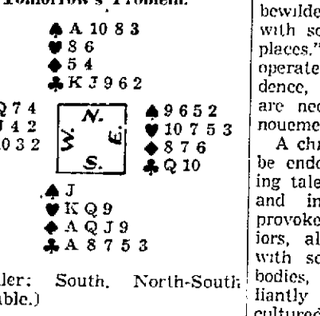
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If West leads the heart 2 against South's 3 No-Trumps, two tricks later wins the diamond finesse, then makes the terrible return of the heart 4, what amazingly rare feat is South now able to perform?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, June 13.

A DAY OF stirring events, with probably much commotion, excitement and drastic action, is forecast from the very interesting planetary configurations. It seems to be a rather revolutionary turn of the tide into new and surprising channels, with far-reaching effect on the future life and its fortunes, depending upon this day's wise decisions. While the signs are largely propitious there is likely to be want of approval from superiors although ready cooperation will be found in group action. Over all there is need for precaution against subtle, obscure and even treacherous efforts to undermine important objectives.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a momentous year in which it may be said the whole future destiny is at stake. Radical issues are involved, both in business and private life, social, domestic and romantic affiliations being particularly challenging. The elements of fraud, duplicity, or other peculiar, mysterious or bewildering factors are involved, with some opposition from "high places." Strangers and groups cooperate; but in all relations prudence, forethought and vigilance are needed to avert curious denouements.

A child born on this day should be endowed with some outstanding talents, with much originality and independence, which may provoke opposition from superiors, although being harmonious with social groups and humane bodies, with whom it may brilliantly cooperate. It should be cultured, artistic, intellectual.

NUPTIAL AFFAIRS AT ENTERTAINMENT HELM

Misses Mary Elizabeth Jurgens, Marie Kraus Feted By Friends; Recent Bride Given Party; Engagement Told.

AS JUNE goes well into her second week entertaining rises to a new high with both pre- and post-nuptial parties and announcement parties creating interest almost every evening. Another in the series of affairs for Miss Mary Elizabeth Jurgens was given by her fiance's mother and sister last night.

The hostesses, Mrs. P. R. Eaton, 496 Stewart Lane, and Mrs. Clement Wehinger, gave a miscellaneous shower at which 12 were entertained. Bridge was in play at three tables with Mrs. J. V. Jurgens and Mrs. Joseph Geiger, jr., winning the prizes which they gave to the honoree.

A lamp was presented by the hostesses. Pastel shades decorated the refreshment table which was centered with bachelor buttons. Green and white tapers, and a base of fern completed the setting. Pastel handkerchiefs folded in flower shapes marked each place.

Miss Jurgens and Charles F. Eaton will be married at St. Peter's Catholic church at 9:30 a. m. June 22.

Recipes were copied by the eight guests attending the party given by Miss Marianne Boebel in honor of Miss Marie Kraus at the Towne House last night. Cootie was played later in the evening, and prizes were won by Mrs. Arch Shrewsberry and Mrs. Harold Rinehart, who gave their awards to Miss Kraus.

Shopping Around...

With MARIANNE

WITH Father's day this Sunday, you'll want to remember your dad with a gift to give him pleasure on his day—as well as all the year through. . . . The downtown stores are featuring all sorts of helpful suggestions, so you'd better have a look around and select something for your father within the next day or two.

Marianne

If he enjoys a game of golf or tennis, or likes nothing better than to relax on the lawn or spend a day in the country, he'll be well pleased with a slack suit, I'm sure. . . . With "in and outer" shirts and slacks of spun rayon, cotton pongee or silk gabardine, these come in a variety of colors such as camel, blue, green, luggage and mocha—and they're trimmed with saddle stitching.

* * *

Perhaps your father is one who spends all of his spare summer minutes swimming. . . . Well then, you could find nothing better to give him than some swim shorts. . . . This year they'll streamline the waistline, coming in rayon-wool and rayon-lastex combinations. . . . The colors are maroon, royal blue, green, black, yellow, navy and brown—and the styles are patterned as well as plain.

* * *

In the realm of shirts, you'll find some tropical ones, which seem to have a million windows to keep dad cool all summer long, and you can purchase them in white or light pastels, whichever you think he might like best. . . . You also can buy separate sport shirts (for dad to wear with the slack suits I mentioned a moment ago) of rayon or gabardine in all colors as well as white or cream. . . . Oh yes, and I mustn't forget to tell you that those cool tropical shirts come in sets with matching or contrasting tie, handkerchief and shorts. . . . Incidentally, it's a good thing to remember that the style for this summer is matching tie and hose, matching shirt and pocket handkerchief.

JUST in case your father hasn't bought his new straw hat yet, you can give him a certificate for one all done up in a miniature hat box, so that he can go down to the store and pick out the one that suits him best. . . . Jewelry is another good gift idea, and you can purchase cuff links, tie chain or clip, key chain or coin knife in new, antique or white gold.

* * *

No matter how warm the night, your dad will certainly find it conducive to sleep if he has some light-weight pajamas. You'll find the local shops are showing these cool summer sleepers with long or short sleeves, long or short legs and slip-on or button style coats. . . . And when it comes to summer robes, there are all styles and colors in foulard silk, seersucker and terry cloth.

* * *

ANOTHER GIFT, which will be a constant reminder of your affections for dad all year, will be one of toiletries such as shaving soap, after-shaving lotion, talcum and cologne. . . . You can get all of these items in a variety of scents (which are cool, fresh and appealing to men) and a wide choice of containers—ranging from crystal bottles to pottery mugs. . . . And by the way, many of them come in boxes which may be used as a catch-all for collar buttons, pins and other typically masculine doodads long after the contents are gone.

AND IN CONCLUSION: In case you're still at a loss for ideas, don't forget about belts and suspenders, as they're extra-special this year, coming in green and white, brown and white, blue and white combinations as well as ivory, white and bamboo toned leathers. . . . Don't forget too that luggage (whether it be a gladstone or zipper bag or toilet kit) is always acceptable. . . . At any rate, be sure to make dad happy by presenting him with a gift that will bring him lasting pleasure—and at the same time make yourself happy in solving his age old problem.

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

Loop Set To Stage Star Tilt

Ohio State League Will Hold First Classic Late In July.

By CHARLES MARTIN

PLANS are expected to be completed this week to stage the All-Star Ohio State league games late in July . . . Sports writers from newspapers in the circuit cities will meet at Tiffin Thursday to outline methods of selecting players and the two managers.

The scribes will also vote on the city in which the classic, first of its kind in league history, will be played. . . . Players from Lima, Mansfield and Tiffin will oppose a team picked from Fremont, Findlay and Fostoria. . . . League President Paul Shank will have complete charge of the game and proceeds will be used for league promotion.

At least two Mansfield Brave players have a chance of winning a berth on the team providing they continue their present pace. . . . They are Howard Beals and Hal Hundemer—Mansfield's clever second-base combination.

* * *

Both have been playing spectacular ball and have won a lot of followers with their nifty double-play work. Beals, incidentally, will have a battle from Dick Cassini, Tiffin shortstop . . . Cassini at present is setting the individual batting pace in the league with an impressive .437 per cent mark . . . while Beals is coming along fast at a 327 clip.

* * *

Mansfield also has three pitchers and anyone one of them might be in All-star lineup. Tony Scotti, George Laurila and Bob Arnold look like pretty good bets . . . Scottie, who came to Mansfield from Fargo-Moorhead in the Northern league, has a world of speed and looked good in his lone start.

Hamilton, Frye May Attend Ohio University.

WHEN Ohio university's freshman football squad trots out on the gridiron this fall there may be two faces very familiar to fans in this district. . . . According to reports, Bob Frye of Crestline and Howard "Tick" Hamilton of Bellville are going to enter the university.

Hamilton, 165-pound halfback, won fame for himself last fall as a member of the crack Bellville high Blujays . . . He won the state individual scoring championship and set a new record in doing it. . . . He tallied 278 points, collecting 62 of them in one game (he scored 10 touchdowns and added two points from placement). . . . Hamilton scored at least one touchdown in every game. . . . Frye, star back of the undefeated and untied Crestline high Onodagas, is larger than Hamilton, tipping the Toledos around the 180-mark. . . . Frye is a valuable asset to any team . . . for he can run, buck the line, pass (left-handed), punt and placekick. . . . Frye and Phil Ganni the other halfback, made headlines in 1939 as the "touchdown twins" because of their brilliant offensive play.

The Amateur Athletic union has set aside the week of July 1 to 7, as National Sports week. . . . It proposes to mobilize the recreational activities and demonstrate by sports competition the American way of fair play and sportsmanship.

* * *

Archery shooters from every nick and corner of the United States will invade Milwaukee June 21-23 to participate in the Grand American Open Archery tournament. . . . The classic will be held at the state fair grounds . . . Among those planning to attend are Ken and Walt Wilhelm of Yermo, Calif . . . Ken is one of the country's top-notch trick shooters. . . .

LASH, MAYO HEADLINE A. A. U. TRACK PROGRAM

CINCINNATI—(INS)—A two-mile dual featuring Don Lash, former holder of the world record in the event, and Walter Mayo, erstwhile Wisconsin star, was to headline a four-event A. A. U. track program at Crosley field tonight prior to the Red-Pnil game.

Tommy Deckard, an Indiana product like Lash, will also run in the two-mile classic.

Boston Defeats Indians

Brings Tribe Record to Seven Losses Against Five Victories.

(By Associated Press)

BOSTON—Smarting from a 9 to 2 defeat which plummeted them into third place, the Cleveland Indians wind up their eastern invasion on the short end today, then head for home and pastures they hope will be greener.

* * *

The Tribe looked at its seven losses against five victories, looked too at the impressive pitching record of Al Milnar, and depended on the southpaw to end the series against the Boston Red Sox with a little more glory.

Although the Tribe remains within a game of the lead, the Detroit Tigers routed it from second place on percentage points.

Bob Feller, hurling with a torn cartilege in his right side and opposing his nemesis, Jack Wilson, was set down yesterday for the fourth time in 12 starts. The Red Sox pounded him for seven hits and five runs, including a homer by Joe Cronin, in five innings. Wilson has never been beaten by Feller.

Joe Dobson took over for Cleveland in the sixth, and in the next inning the Sox battered him for four runs, Ted Williams' homer scoring three other men. Naymick finished for the Tribe, allowing two hits in the eighth.

* * *

Wilson yielded seven hits while the Sox collected 11.

Golfdom's Top Stars Set for Inverness

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO — (AP) — Tear Page 1 from golfdom's "who's who" and you'll just about have the field which tees off Thursday for $6,000 in the annual four-ball match play tourney at the Inverness club.

* * *

The 16 top-flight professionals in the four-day fight include the present and five previous National Open champions, the present and three previous P. G. A. kings, the game's longest hitters and the big money winners of the last few years.

Topping the list is Lawson Little, the 30-year-old apprentice professional from Bretton Woods, N. H., who learned to play golf in an oriental cemetery, won the American and British amateur titles in 1934 and 1935, and then beat Gene Sarazen in the playoff for the National Open crown last Sunday at Cleveland.

At Inverness the 16 stars are paired in eight teams. Each team meets each of the others in 18-hole match play events, the winner getting a "plus" score for each hole it finishes ahead of its rival, and the loser getting a "minus" for each one it finishes down. The team with the greatest "plus" total takes the big end of the plunder.

The pairings are: Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, defending champions; Dick Metz and Jimmy Demaret; Byron Nelson and Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Clayton Haefner; Horton Smith and Jimmy Thomson; Little and "Jug" McSpaden; Ed Dudley and Billy Burke, and Ralph Guldahl and Sam Snead.

Opening round is scheduled Thursday afternoon; the field then goes on a two-a-day schedule through Sunday.

Here's a quick look at the accomplishments of some of the field:

Hagen — National Open champion in 1914 and 1919; P. G. A. champion in 1921-24-25-26-27; British Open king in 1922-24-28-29; three-time Western Open champion, and captain of U. S. Ryder cup team from 1927 through 1939.

Guldahl—1937-38 National Open champion, and 1936-37-38 Western Open winner, only man to take latter title three straight times.

Picard—National P. G. A. king, champ of Argentina in 1937, and only player ever to beat Hagen in a playoff. He did it in 1932 to win Carolina Open. In 54 tournaments in 1934-35 he beat par 50 times and tied it three for world scoring record.

Revolta—P. G. A. champion in 1935, and co-holder of world record of 66-67-67-80-270 for 72-hole tournament. Set it in 1931 Minnesota Open.

Sarazen—National Open champion in 1922 and 1932, P. G. A. king in 1922-23 and '32. Played in first National Open at Inverness in 1920 when 18, and won title two years later, second youngest ever to turn trick. Youngest was Horace Rawlins, who won the inaugural in 1895 at 19, with 173 for 36 holes, a score which would be last in the modern era.

Snead—Leading money winner of 1938 with $19,534.49; he tossed away 1939 National Open with disastrous eight on final hole, when par five would have won; fired a 67, best opening round in open tourney's history at Cleveland last week, but faded in stretch.

Burke — Winner of National Open's longest playoff over Inverness course in 1931, when he needed extra 72 holes to beat George Von Elm by one stroke to take title.

Thomson—Golf's longest driver, and co-holder with Horton Smith of best 36-hole record for tournament play, 131 strokes. Married to Viola Dana, screen star of silent days.

* * *

Last year the field scored 287 birdies and a flock of eagles as it tore Inverness apart. The boys hope to do better this year.

District Tennis Tourney Opens

Don McNeill Looms as Probable Buckeye Star. Probable Buckey Star.

GAMBIER, O. —(AP)— Don McNeill of Kenyon college, third ranking U. S. amateur, Ohio State's Dick McFarland and Billy Talbert of the University of Cincinnati loomed as probable Buckeye stars today at the opening of the midwest district qualifier for the National Intercollegiate Tennis tournament.

Thirteen doubles teams and 29 singles players were enrolled for the three days of competition which will determine the eight singles and six doubles units eligible for the national tourney at Philadelphia, June 25.

* * *

Entries were filed by Kenyon and the universities of Notre Dame, Ohio State, Northwestern, Kentucky, Illinois, Chicago, Indiana, Denison and Cincinnati.

The qualifier, originally scheduled for Chicago was shifted to the Kenyon courts at the last minute.

Mauler Returns To Ring

Jack Dempsey Defies 45th Birthday, Fights Texas Wrestler.

By LAWTON CARVER
(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Thick around the middle, a little heavy of jowl and to all outward appearances nothing more nor less than the successful business man he has been for nigh onto a decade, Jack Dempsey today is going to defy imminence of his 45th birthday and long disuse of the muscles that made him the original killer-diller.

Before one of the biggest gatherings of sports experts to be lured to a fight training camp in many semesters, the erstwhile Manassa Mauler is slated to put on the gloves for one round up at Carmel, N. Y., with Arturo Godoy, who is training for his return match with Champion Joe Louis on June 20.

Dempsey's appearance in the ring will serve the dual purpose of giving some publicity to the Louis-Godoy show and to Dempsey's own return to the ring on July 1, when he will appear against one Cowboy Luttrell, a wrestler from Texas, in a six-rounder at Atlanta. The wrestler will box, not wrestle, and the bout will be waged with six ounce gloves to a decision (?) or to a knockout (?).

The question marks are my own subtle way of hinting that (1) Dempsey couldn't go six rounds with a Singer midget, and (2) does anybody actually think that there won't be a knockout at Atlanta?

By way of filling you in on the Atlanta extravaganza, which is expected to attract some 35,000 spectators into the ball park, this is a rematch of a brawl between Dempsey and Luttrell several weeks ago, when Dempsey refereed one of the Texan's grunt and growl contests. During the course of the evening's festivities, Luttrell swung at Dempsey and was slugged with a counter left hook, in keeping with the script.

That went over so big and Luttrell has been doing so much judicious popping off ever since, that Dempsey finally was prevailed upon to play an encore—for a price. The wagering around here is that Dempsey will win in a punch, not because he can fight any more, but because he is a good business man.

* * *

As to his lack of ability to fight, it may be reported that Dempsey keeps himself in good shape at the age of 45, the arrival of which he will celebrate next week, but hardly in fighting shape. However, it is is more or less assured that he will not be unduly exerted either by Godoy today or by the cowboy later on. As a matter of fact, Mr. Al Weill, Godoy's manager, fixed up today's little party in the hope that Dempsey may be able to show his fighter a trick or two for the Louis encounter, and at the same time stir up some publicity.

Another Knot-Hole Gang Loop May Be Organized

The Friendly House will send another Mansfield Braves Knot-hole league into action within a week if present plans are completed. With an eight-team league ready to swing into action at the Fairground this week, Russ Gimbel, Friendly House director, and Floyd Dent, boy scout executive, believe another circuit can be organized with the winners of each loop battling in a championship playoff when the season ends.

McLemore Cheered By Word That Derby Will Be Held

By HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Almost lost among the European dispatches that came to the cable desk of the United Press yesterday was a small item which read:

"Eighteen three-year-olds were named today for the 161st running of the English Derby to be renewed at Newmarket tomorrow."

To me this was the most heartening word that had come from Great Britain in quite a while. Though it did not come from any government or military headquarters, it told eloquently of a people's spirit; of a spirit which, in the darkest hour, refused to yield even to the extent of calling off a horse race.

The one and only compromise the British made in holding their beloved derby was to move it from London's Epsom Downs to Newmarket, some 75 miles away, where interruption by air raid would not be so likely.

To me, the colts who went to the post in the derby today represented more than just race horses. It doesn't take a maudlin man to read into their high held heads and their proud step the symbol of a proud nation.

This was thoroughbred racing at its very best. Thoroughbreds sent out by thoroughbreds.

No thinking person could believe that the British people really were interested in the result of today's derby. As much as the British people love sport, and no people on earth can match them in their love for games, their hearts and minds must have been with the soldiers in France. And this is what makes today's running of the derby so magnificent. To rise above a natural inclination to discard things that really do not matter, to insist on protecting a thread—even a thread built of so flimsy a material as that of racing tradition—is the act of a valiant breed.

* * *

The derby winds back to 1780, when these United States were exactly three years old, and I like to feel that in maintaining it, Britain refused to admit that the evil times of today would prevail, and that the Britain of the future would have all of its old ties running back, unbroken to the glorious Britain of the past.

Fights Once More

Jack Dempsey, absent from the ring for many years, will put on the gloves for a one-round exhibition with Arturo Godoy at Godoy's training camp at Carmel, N. Y., today. On July 1, the 45-year-old ex-champion will appear in a six-round exhibition against Cowboy Luttrell, a Texas wrestler, in Atlanta, Ga.

Derringer Out For Revenge

Red's Ace Take Mound In Final With Phils.

CINCINNATI—(AP)— Spread of the National League pennant feud into a three-way scrap, with the Giants moving into the thick of battle, added to the Reds woes as they dug in for a final home stand against the Phils tonight before going east to meet Brooklyn.

* * *

Paul Derringer was out to avenge from the mound a 4-1 trouncing Philadelphia handed the Reds and their star hurler Bucky Walters yesterday. Derringer, seeking his seventh victory, was squared off against Kirby Higby, with a 4-4 record for the Phils.

Walters allowed nine hits in his second defeat of the year, as against nine triumphs. A single, two doubles and an unsuccessful attempt at a double play gave the Phils three runs in the sixth inning to cinch the victory.

Held to seven hits by Walter Beck, the Reds scored their lone run in the third. Lonnie Frey was hit by a pitched ball and crossed the plate on Ival Goodman's triple. A double and a single scored a run for Philadelphia in the fourth to tie the score before the sixth inning attack.

Only a perfect throw by Johnny Rizzo from left field prevented the Phils from increasing the count in the eighth inning. The toss caught Joe Marty at the plate.

Turn American Loop Race Into Four-Way Battle

Tommy Bridges Misses Shutout Only Because of Rudy York's Error.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE DETROIT TIGERS are in the American league's fierce flag fight up to their necks today and show every sign of staying there.

So it's time for everybody to admit that the struggle in the junior circuit is a four-way affair just as the equally bitter battle in the National league is at least a three-way race.

The Tigers squeezed into second place in their league yesterday by defeating the New York Yankees 6-1 while the Boston Red Sox disposed of the threatening Cleveland Indians 9-2.

The Tigers have been a strong club right along, never worse than third in the American league since the first week of the season. Yet they never have won more than four games in a row.

At the start of the season Charley Gehringer was ailing and the whole infield was shaky. Nobody knew how the experiment of Hank Greenberg in the outfield would turn out. The pitching was very promising and above everything else the Yankees, Red Sox and Indians all were considered better clubs.

* * *

Tommy Bridges never had his curve breaking any better than yesterday when he held the Yanks to five hits. He would have had a shutout except for an error by Rudy York. And his teammates gave him 11 hits, including three home runs.

The Red Sox defeated the Indians handsomely, giving Bob Feller his fourth defeat of the season.

Feller wasn't the only wonder pitcher to fall into a pit. Bucky Walters, who won nine games before he was beaten, was pounced upon by the Phillies 4-1 for his second straight setback. The defeat widened the distance between Cincinnati and the pace-making Brooklyn Dodgers, who were rained out.

One of the day's happiest occurences was a four-hit pitching performance by Paul Dean in accounting for one half of the New York Giants' double triumph over the Chicago Cubs. Paul came up with a heart-stirring show for his first National league victory in two years, 3-2.

His successful start followed close upon a five-hit shutout Bill Lohrman pitched to beat the Cubs 4-0 in the first game. The twin killing lifted the Giants to a game and a half behind the Reds.

* * *

Vernon Kennedy, another battered veteran, landed rightside up as the St. Louis Browns again whipped the Washington Senators 5-2. Kennedy gave up nine hits, one more than Dutch Leonard.

The Chicago White Sox kept Washington from dropping to the cellar by edging out the Philadelphia Athletics 5-4 in a night game.

Toledo Hurler Wins 3rd Tilt

Johnny Whitehead Tosses 3-1 Victory Over Brewers.

(By Associated Press)

Toledo's last-place Mudhens apparently aren't headed anywhere in the American Association race, but rotund John Whitehead hasn't been told about that.

Big John was shipped down to Toledo from the St. Louis Browns a few weeks ago and he has won three straight games since then. He tossed an eight-hit, 3 to 1 victory over Milwaukee last night, striking out five batters and walking none.

* * *

Don Hendrickson set Columbus down with four hits to give Kansas City a 5 to 1 victory.

St. Paul continued its determined drive to get out of seventh place by smacking Louisville, 6 to 2, on Art Herring's steady eight-hit hurling.

Second-place Minneapolis remained within a game of Kansas City by defeating Indianapolis, 9 to 7. The game started as a mound duel and wound up as a slugfest, the Millers getting four runs in the ninth and the Indians three.

QUARTER-MILE LOOMS AS TRACK MEET FEATURE

CHICAGO—(INS)—A quarter-mile duel between Lee Orr, Pacific coast and Princeton meet champion, and Warren Breidenbach of Michigan, the Big Ten champion, loomed today as the standout feature of the fourth dual track meet between the Western and Pacific coast conferences next Monday at Northwestern university.

RAINED OUT

Matches in The News-Journal Class "A" golf league which were to have been held last night at Possum Run were rained out. Officials of the league said today that yesterday's matches will be played Friday, June 21.

Mansfield Plays at Findlay

Laurila to Take Mounds as Braves Battle to Cut Oilers' Lead.

THEIR doubleheader at the Fairground last night rained out, our Braves invade Findlay today to clash with the pace-making Oilers in an Ohio State league setto under the arcs tonight.

Pilot Dewey Stover picked George Laurila to face Findlay as Mansfield endeavors to slice down the league-leader's advantage.

When the Braves return to the Fairground at 8:15 p. m. Thursday before a "Ladies' night" crowd it will mark the first time the team has performed before a home gathering since the Saturday night game which was cut short in the sixth by rain.

Mansfield has been idle since Sunday when the club stopped Fostoria, 3 to 1, and Stover and his warriors are anxious to resume their fight for first place in the championship race.

Still trying to add strength to the mound staff, Mansfield club officials today believe they have the makings of a first class pitching corps.

With the addition of Eatilo Angaran, tall righthander, the Braves are expected to make a serious bid for the leadership which the defending championship Findlay club has held for several weeks.

* * *

Mansfield plays here Thursday and will be back at the Fairground at 9 p. m. Saturday to meet second-place Lima. The Pandas, incidentally, have been socking the ball all over the lot during the past week and Stover hopes to have his moundsmen in top shape for the tilt.

YMCA Commercial Loop Clubs Tangle

Four games are on the card in the Y. M. C. A. Commercial league for tonight. They are: Town Tavern vs. Isaly Dairy at Tappan field, Moose club vs. Nick's Place at Blue Goose field, Tappans vs. Barnes Manufacturing at Liberty Park, and Kobacker's vs. Service Taxi at North Lake park.

SHARES JUMP AS HIGH AS NINE POINTS

Rearmament Program Holds Out Promise of Long Period of Production.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Inspired by the defense of Paris and increasing American industrial activity, traders turned to the buying side of the market today in a rush which sent shares four to nine points higher.

Prices and the rate of dealings subsided a bit toward the fourth hour.

Commentators said the United States rearmament program was regarded as holding forth to industry hopes for a fairly long period of high-speed production.

Bonds and commodities made strong advances, with cotton and hides among the best performers.

Wall Street observed with satisfaction a general upsweep in established barometers of American industry.

"Installed Tripl-ife. What a furnace!"

"The Williamson Heater Company:

Our house was equipped with a Williamson furnace when it was first built. This old furnace proved satisfactory. In September, 1936, our new Williamson Tripl-ife was installed and "Bor" what a furnace! Our home is much more comfortable. We use less coal because our new furnace is equipped with a thermostat which automatically closes the draft door when the furnace becomes a certain temperature."

SAW REFUGEES FLEE ATTACKS

Galion Man Tells of Flight of Europeans, Own Escape From Antwerp Raid.

"An old woman around 80 walking with a small child whose feet were doubling under with fatigue whispered "Courage" to the whimpering child.

"An impressive sight was the entrance of the French troops into Belgium. The French entered the country in every possible conveyance: bicycles, motorcycles, taxis, old cars, and such," Adams said.

One of the most outstanding impressions of his travels in Europe was the activity of the "Fifth Column," in Belgium and France.

"Everywhere they tried to instill fear in the hearts of the civilians behind the lines. It was hardly safe to wear a brown suit, because these were worn by the "parachutists," and anyone appearing in this color was under suspicion.

"If suspicious characters were jailed, it would take nearly a month before their cases could be heard. So great were the numbers that were jailed, that they were placed in houses instead of regular jails, and were surrounded by guards," Adams said.

In Antwerp, Adams said the fighting took place outside the city. When it was first bombed, he felt fear, but afterward was able to sleep. An anti-aircraft gun exploding near his residence in Antwerp was more startling than the bombing, he said.

On board the Manhattan were 867 aliens, and during the crossing of the Atlantic there was one birth, one death, and an attempted suicide.

Because of the trouble in crossing the border from Belgium into France, Adams said he was lucky because his car was one of 25 which went directly to Paris, and much of the success of getting through was because his party had painted letters on their automobile and said they were connected with the army, which was true to the extent that they followed army cars.

He was arrested once for possessing a camera, and was not allowed to take pictures of any war activities. Most of his possessions were left behind.

Navy Orders Work Speeded Up on 22 New Warships

BATTLESHIPS INCLUDED IN INITIAL PLAN

Swift Action Unmatched In World War, Officials Declare.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The navy announced today that work was ordered started on two new 45,000-ton battleships and 20 other warships and auxiliaries last night, within an hour after President Roosevelt signed the navy's $1,400,000,000 appropriation act.

The two battleships were assigned to the New York and Philadelphia navy yards, respectively, and the other vessels were divided between government and commercial yards.

Officials said the navy acted with swiftness unmatched even in the World war. The contracts for 9 warships assigned to commercial shipbuilding plants had been negotiated while final action on the appropriation was awaited.

The ships will cost more than $327,000,000 to complete, it was estimated.

The speed with which the navy acted found its army conterpart in measures which were said to be designed both to strengthen defenses and furnish substantial assistance to the British and French Allies.

A group of 93 airplanes and millions of dollars worth of munitions were being made available to the Allies by the army under the government's "trade-in" plan of aid.

The 93 war planes, Northrup attack ships, were being concentrated at Houlton, Me., on the Canadian border. The Douglas Aircraft Corporation of Burbank, Calif., successor to the Northrup company, was reported to have agreed to accept them in payment on new planes to be delivered later to the army.

The concentration at Houlton was said to have been decided upon as the most direct way of getting the ships, which are 6 or 7 years old, to the Allies.

The White House reported that the army was turning its reserve manufacturing equipment over to private industry for the "immediate production of sizeable quantities of smokeless powder, ammonia and small arms ammunition." .. ...

Previously it had been disclosed that $37,600,000 worth of surplus munitions had been tentatively traded in to the U. S Steel export company, by which it would be resold.

The army's reserve manufacturing equipment was described by officials as having cost between $5, 000 000 and $10,000,000

If a property owner does not receive a statement within the next few days, he can get one by calling the treasurer's office and giving his address, the treasurer said.

BLANK CHECKS STOLEN, STORES GET FORGERIES

Five In Amounts of $38.45 Drawn on Company, Cashed By Man, Woman.

Police today were investigating a series of check forgeries presumably the work of the same man who stole a bunch of blank checks from the Lindeman-Almy printing company last week

Five checks, all in the amounts of 38.45, have turned up since June 8, police said. These were cashed at Schmutzler's Cafe, H L Reed company, Bazley's market, Buehler's market and Kobacker's store.

The checks were all on the account of the Simon Small and company. Blank checks for this firm were stolen on June 5 from the printing company. Almy told police that a man came into his place of business on that date to see samples of checks printed for private concerns. Among the samples were those printed for the Small company.

He said the man returned several hours later and sat down at a desk in which the checks were kept, while he talked of having some made. Later Almy discovered that the checks had been stolen from the desk

Police have a description of the man as well as the woman who accompanied him to several of the places where the checks were cashed

turers, who then would be free to resell them to the Allies.

The authority was incorporated in a defense bill providing for unlimited expansion of the army air corps, government construction or leasing of munitions plants, a presidential curb on the export of essential war materials, and voting $132,000,000 for preparedness expenditures at the chief executive's discretion.

The omnibus bill, most of which the house previously approved, was returned to that chamber for concurrence in the arms "trade in" and some other amendments.

The army already has tentatively turned over $37,600,000 worth of "surplus" munitions to the U. S. Steel Export company.

Equal celerity of senate action was expected on the request Mr Roosevelt made yesterday for a $50,000,000 fund to succor the civilian populations in the war zone.

In the house, the appropriations committee recommended passage of a $1,706,053,908 supplementary appropriation bill for the army. The measure, according to the army high command, would enable the nation to prepare "for all manner of possibilities in the Western hemisphere."

The army legislation swelled defense commitments to a record $5,021,619,622 peacetime total—only a billion less than the bill for the first fiscal year of America's participation in the World war.

At the White House Mr Roosevelt signed the $1 400 000,000 naval appropriation bill and was ready to put his signature on two more. The house sent him a measure authorizing an 11 per cent expansion in the battle fleet and an increase in navy air strength From the senate came the regular $1,821,853,222 army appropriation bill.

LEGISLATORS UNCERTAIN ON RELIEF CALL

Controversy Rages Over Plan To Separate Ballots In November Election.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Special session sentiment among Ohio legislative leaders still was uncrystalized today as Gov. John W. Bricker neared his self-imposed deadline for a decision on whether to call the general assembly for consideration of relief financing, old age pension liberalization and a separation of state and national ballots.

House Speaker William M. McCulloch of Piqua said he had tried to contact a number of key legislators by telephone, but that the outcome was "wholly uncertain at this time."

McCulloch conferred at length with Bricker yesterday, and the governor said he would decide today whether to convene the legislature. A call would be issued for next Monday, he said, if his decision was in the affirmative.

Controversy raged principally over a proposed separation of ballots for the Nov. 5 election.

Governor Bricker contended emphatically that such a move would not impair U. S. Sen Robert A Taft's chances for the Republican presidential nomination, he said However, he had not discussed the matter with Senator Taft.

At Cincinnati, meanwhile, State Sen. Laurance A. Kane, chairman of the Hamilton county legislative delegation, said his group refused to "go along" with the governor on the special session proposal. He declined to discuss reasons for the decision.

State Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt estimated that $50,000,000 a year would be required to pay pensions on a liberalized scale. This would mean an annual increase of $8,750,000 in state participation

WATER TABLE FOR MANSFIELD AT HIGH LEVEL

Torrential Rains Increase Supply; There Won't Be Any Shortage Danger.

Torrential rains that have plagued Mansfielders this spring and damaged Richland county crops have had a compensating advantage, which has given everybody a break!

To Mansfielders it means that there will be no shortage of water this summer even if there is a prolonged drought and it has a distinct bearing on the city's future water supply.

City Engineer W. C. Statler said today the water table—that underground supply from which Mansfield's water is obtained—has shown a noticeable rise.

He explained that the water table for the past two years has shown an increase in elevation due to the more or less open winters and rainy spring weather.

This, he said, allows the surface water to filter to the subterranean reservoirs and protects the city's industrial plants against any immediate dangers of a water shortage.

Measurements taken at numerous test wells sunk in the Maxwell field where the major portion of Mansfield's water is obtained show that there has been a steady rise in the underground supply since the spring of 1939.

Before that, Statler said there had been a steady drop in the table yearly since 1925 when the city began taking periodic measurements.

Although the water table throughout the state has shown a drop in recent years it was pointed out that Mansfield's table was the highest in recent history.

With a total daily consumption of approximately 6,000,000 gallons, Statler said there was little possibility that even in the face of an extended drought that the city's supply would be taxed.

He estimated that consumer consumption averaged about 3,500,000 gallons a day while Mansfield industries, most of which have their own wells draw another 2,500,000 gallons daily.

CANCER SECRET

Philadelphia Scientist Has New Experiment Plan.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— The fundamental secrets of cancer may be revealed through experiments now being conducted by Dr. Baldwin Lucke, Professor of Pathology at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

Reporting to the International Cancer Research Foundation, Dr. Lucke said he had introduced pieces of diseased tissue into the interior chambers of the eyes of frogs.

With this set up, explained the physician, it is possible to watch the cancer cells grow and to photograph the development.

Preliminary findings show that the tissue grows in "definite" patterns, according to Dr. Lucke. He added that this condition is contrary to belief among scientists that cancer is wild in growth. It was also found that cancer cells are sensitive to temperature and season.

CAUTION COSTS PENSION MONEY

DENVER — (U.P.) — A Fremont county old-age pension client, who refused a $1,000 offer for a $60 piece of property because he feared the money would deprive him of the Colorado benefits, is without both the money and the payments, whereas he could have had both.

Earl M. Kouns, director of the state welfare board, revealed that the unidentified client could have evaded a state regulation prohibiting ownership of property valued at more than $500 by selling it for the $1,000. Thus his payments would have continued. His refusal resulted in his dismissal from state rolls and meantime the $1,000 offer was dropped.

TWO-YEAR-OLD STATE HIGHWAY EASEMENT ACTION SETTLED

A state highway land appropriation case which has been pending in Richland county common pleas court for nearly two years was settled unexpectedly after a special jury had been summoned to hear it.

The suit involved an appeal by Willard Hale, owner of approximately 1.5 acres of land in Weller township which the state highway department sought for a right-of-way for the Windsor cut-off on route 42.

Hale appealed after he was offered $84 for the strip of land. Amount of the settlement was not announced. Hale was represented by Attys. Reed and Beach. The highway has already been built over the disputed property.

The special jury approved the settlement and then was dismissed. The jurors were:

Mrs. Eleanor Eckert, 639 Park avenue west; Mrs. Anna M. Beckley, 135 South Diamond street; Chester Morgan, Perry township; F. T. Shaw, 544 Park avenue west; Mrs. Ruth Burkholder, 127 Rowland avenue; Ray Molder, Sharon township; Fred Cairns, Bloominggrove township; Arthur Leiter, Monroe township; James Ottinger, 216 West Dickson avenue; Howard Jones, 223 Vennum avenue; George Reese, Springfield township, and Clayton Marks, Butler township.

The statue of Freedom, surmounting the dome of the capitol at Washington, was modeled by Thomas Crawford, father of Francis Marion Crawford, the novelist.

ESCAPE ARTIST

Prisoner Removes Handcuffs When Key Missing.

RALEIGH, N. C.—(AP)—The officer who had handcuffed the prisoner went off with the key. The prison guards remembered that another prisoner, Percy Newsome, had bragged he could pick the lock on his own handcuffs. They called on him. At 2 a. m., after toiling an hour, he got the handcuffs off the prisoner.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1940.

It appears that Uncle Sam is all ready to go to bat—if he had a bat.

The bust of King Leopold has been removed from the Belgian pavilion at the New York fair—because of his bust in Belgium.

Martin Dies puts it in a quite understandable way when he says: "The Bill of Rights never was intended to protect traitors."

Military Training Part of Defense

THEORIES of isolation and ocean-guarded security for the United States are being "blacked out" by the totalitarian display of military might in Europe.

Not until the events of recent weeks in Norway, Holland, Belgium and France has there been an American awakening to the seriousness of subversive movements and "fifth column" activities in this country, and there has been an inclination to regard alien agitators and organizers as harmless crackpots.

Nor was it long ago that proponents of compulsory military training would have been shouted down by an overwhelming majority. Now, however, the idea of establishing military drill for the young men of America is gaining in favor among people who realize that no independent nation can be safe, however peace-loving it may be, while Nazi and Fascist laws of force are permitted to operate in the world.

Movement toward a defense program for the United States must necessarily involve the training of soldiers, sailors and airmen, as well as expenditure of billions of dollars for military equipment, and while there may never be a requirement to use men and munitions in actual warfare, the best assurance against this need will be readiness to meet any aggressive action that might be made by a foreign power toward this nation.

Approval of some form of military training for young men has been expressed by President Roosevelt, General John J. Pershing, and a number of others who are in position to realize the urgent need for better preparedness. It has even been suggested by the New York Times as advisable that suitable training be given all men between the ages of 18 and 65, so that each would be equipped to perform some service to his country if need arises. Delay now might mean a waste of months, possibly a year or more, in the event of such a situation as was forced upon Europe by Hitler, and in which he is now joined by Mussolini.

France and Great Britain could scarcely have been regarded as unprepared, but events have shown that they were not sufficiently prepared to immediately meet the frightful impact of mechanized warfare that was suddenly thrust upon them.

A statement by Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion, in an article in the June Legionnaire, deserves serious thought. He says: "Fast-moving aggressor nations have no intention of allowing us to select our own time and place for exerting the might of a re-armed America. . . The Legion believes in the protection, at all hazards, of the free people of the Western Hemisphere as our primary obligation . . . For God and country we have associated ourselves. We pledge again our loyalty to that creed."

Country-Style Apartments

FROM New York City comes word that the country apartment mode of living is increasingly popular. This, it develops, is a combination of the convenience of the apartment house with the fresh air and outdoor possibilities of the suburbs.

Two large residential buildings of this type are now under construction only 15 minutes by subway from Times Square. The site was chosen for its convenient transportation to churches, schools, shopping centers, parks, golf courses, country clubs and beaches.

The buildings themselves will be surrounded by a setting of shrubbery, landscaping and tree-lined streets and will have their own garden courts.

The time seems to have passed when apartment house dwellers had to be content with plants on window sills for their glimpse of green and growing things.

An Appreciation of Hugh Martin

ASSOCIATION in a newspaper office through even as short a time as ten years, provides opportunity for recognition of fine qualities that might otherwise be overlooked.

It was on the basis of such an association that Hugh Martin became the friend of everyone connected with the production of the Mansfield News-Journal, and of many other persons in this city whom he met on the occasions of his weekly trips here.

An estimate of Hugh is found in the frequently heard remark: "He is among the finest men I have ever known," and this tribute was not withheld until after his passing, but represented the sincere impression of those who had been privileged to know him for a number of years.

Implicit honesty, exceptional capability and consistent dependability marked every phase of his work; a cordial greeting, a friendly smile and unfailing courtesy were natural parts of his fine character, and an ideal home life, in his devotion to wife and children, was no more than a reflection of those traits which won the admiration and respect of all who knew him.

We will miss Hugh Martin—but we are glad to have had the opportunity to count him among our friends, if only for a little while.

Hand Signals By Motorists

LISTING "People We Like," a newspaper includes "the automobile driver who with his hand signals which way he is going to turn."

Drivers can often perform a useful service of this kind, not only by indicating their own course but by warning a driver in the rear of some danger ahead that he can't see.

Yet some drivers, perhaps with the best intention, bungle their signals. There is nobody on the road, for instance, more dangerous than the motorist ahead who, when about to turn to the right, gives a vague signal with his left hand which the driver behind interprets as indicating a left turn. Serious wrecks are sometimes caused by such procedure. A deceptive signal is often worse than no signal at all.

Experts say that, whether signalling with the hand or not, it is well in traffic to avoid any sudden change of direction or speed, and to maneuver so that anyone behind can see what you are going to do in time to take care of himself.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — The members of the Song Writers Guild recently announced that the winners of their newest contest were two inmates of San Quentin prison. This is in line with winners of previous contests among amateur composers, as the lucky contestants have turned out to be a cattle rancher, a precision engineer, a fire extinguisher salesman, three housewives, and a man who drives a truck for a grocery store.

The Writers Guild is an organization on Broadway that encourages amateurs to compose modern music. The contestants send in their songs; the judges select the one that in their opinion is most deserving and guarantees publication through a recognized publishing firm.

Since the current winning song comes from two young men in a penitentiary, it seems worthwhile to look into their background, and determine the circumstances under which the tune was inspired.

ITS title is "I'm on the Verge of a Merge." Its composers are Dwight Claar and John D. Hawkins. Mr. Claar, it is alleged, was assigned to San Quentin as the penalty imposed on him for driving another man's automobile without the owner's permission. Mr. Hawkins, according to my information, is there because there were insufficient funds in a certain bank to cover his checks.

Three days from now, that is to say, on June 14, Mr. Claar will be a free man. It is a particularly happy occasion for him because he and Mr. Hawkins have been awarded the $200 prize that goes with the selection of a Guild winning number.

How did they happen to write "I'm on the Verge of a Merge"?

It seems that Claar and Hawkins attended harmony classes in prison, both being interested in music. Hawkins himself is quite expert on a guitar.

It seems also that from the rotogravure section of a Sunday newspaper someone tore the picture of a pretty blonde girl. It was pasted on the wall. "It was in the tailor shop," explains Claar in a letter to the Guild, "and as we paused to stare at it I said, 'Did you ever see anything that looked more like an angel?' That gave us the idea for a title, and we at once commandeered the picture. We hadn't any idea who she was, but we ransacked every newspaper we could find until finally we found another picture of her and identified her. She was Jean Darling, the little ex-blond girl in the Our Gang Comedies. Later, after we had worked awhile on the song, I was gazing off into space and failed to hear a remark that was addressed to me. 'Don't bother with him,' Hawkins said. 'He's on the verge of a merge with an angel.' And that was the title."

AND so "I'm on the Verge of a Merge" now makes its appearance among dance orchestras throughout the country. It has been introduced by Mitchell Ayres (who also recorded it for Bluebird) and sung by Mary Ann Mercer, the Ayres vocalist.

Miss Darling, who probably doesn't know that she is the inspiration of this piece, is calmly studying opera in New York.

Meanwhile, the Song Writers Guild, which has functioned now for more than a year, is congratulating itself and preparing for its next competition.

Anybody else got any ideas for a song?

BRAVERY IS NOT ENOUGH

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The tourist trade of the nation's capital probably compares very favorably with that of California, Colorado, Maline and Minnesota in summer, and Florida in winter—but the most amazing phase of it to anynewcomer must certainly be the thousands upon thousands of private school, high school and college youngsters who flock here every spring.

Like most of these money-spending movements, the "see-Washington-first" and "know-your-capital" drives were started by commercial enterprise, but the benefits seem to take away a lot of the curse of commercialism.

At any rate, it's a major tourist trend. I can't give you any figgers on the number of children pouring in here, but I tried. The something-or-other committee of the Washington board of trade was proud to inform me that the city had a 50 per cent increase in tourist trade last year, but they don't break down the figures.

Nor do the railroads, bus companies and hotels. But all will tell you they take care of a lot of children. I sat in the office of one of the major bus companies handling local and long-distance trips and heard tours booked for high school groups from Miami, Fla., and Newark, N. J. They have handled groups from Atlanta, Kansas City, Tulsa, Okla., St. Louis, St. Paul and several towns in Connecticut, Massachusetts and upstate New York, to name a few.

They're Well Posted.

THESE educational tours, according to railroad and bus officials, generally are booked by school principals who merely notify the carrier that they have 100, or 200, or whatever the number might be, of youngsters who want to make the trip to Washington for three or five days, or a week.

The itinerary is discussed, the rates made and the tour is on.

Book a room in one of the Washington hotels some night on a floor with a bunch of these wild Indians, if you enjoy a night without sleep. But if you are lucky enough to get in on their conversation, it may be a revelation, the way they gulp down their history and culture.

"Whaddoyou know about that mast of the Battleship Maine being right out there in Arlington cemetery." . . . "Didya hear the guy say those guards walk day and night, summer and winter, heat and storm, at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier?" . . . "How could there have been anything big happening in the senate—why there wasn't more than a handful of those guys there." . . . "Say, wasn't that Whispering Gallery in the Hall of Statuary swell? And that used to be the House of Representatives. How you suppose a guy ever got a speech made when he had to listen to himself?" . . . "Boy, did I get a kick out of seeing the 'Spirit of St. Louis' in the National Museum."

High Pressure, Low Cost.

And so it goes. For a sum estimated at 40 per cent under actual tourist costs, these high school and college groups are getting a high pressure tour of Washington and its nearby historical points, generally including Mt. Vernon, Annapolis, and sometimes Monticello, Yorktown, Old Point Comfort, Fort Myers and Georgetown.

I'm not boosting these tours. I don't really know whether they are worth the money. I'm only reporting that they are here and that there isn't a day when you have business in the Capitol, the Bureau of Engraving, the Smithsonian, or the National Zoo that you don't trip over a bevy of them from faraway cities in the north, the middle west, the deep south.

Listen, World!

I Believe In Decency.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU'VE got to believe in something, something that seems right and rooted, or you can't go far in this world.

Nothing will demoralize you quicker, or worse, than a loss of Faith. You can bear shock and sickness, poverty and injustice with courage and determination, as long as you can still trust the general fairness and friendliness of fate and folks. But if something undermines that trust, your whole grip is shaken.

Unfortunately, life's apt to be one undermining job after another. You face disillusionment before you're out of your Kiddie Klothes. There's always something or somebody ready to smash your ideals. And unless you can make a creed for yourself, which nothing can wreck, you're fated for a fade-out.

This has always been true . . . but never so piognantly true as at present when we Americans are watching every decent principle in which we believed take the count. Holland, Belgium, Norway, Denmark—each nation lived by standards which we called "civilized" . . . which we believed had God's blessing. And now they're ground into the dirt. So what? So it's easy to feel that there isn't any God . . . any lasting values of right or wrong . . . any code to which a bewildered spirit may cling.

Yes—it's easy to run amok these days. Easy to say, "What's the use of believing in anything? Faith and fairness — they're the bunk. And you're a sap if you bank on them. It's a case of each man for himself . . . dog eat dog . . . and the devil take the hindmost."

Yes, it's easy to sneer when life smashes your dreams. Terribly easy to become a cynic. But what does it buy you? Nothing but more bitterness and bewilderment. If you're smart, you'll realize that . . . and make a creed for yourself that you can grip, however dark the storm.

Years ago, when everything I loved and trusted crashed for me, I made such a creed. It steadied me through heartbreak years. It kept me believing in God and Man and Life . . . it saved my love and courage and faith. It's preserving my sanity today. And I'm passing it on to those whose reason may be rocking in the face of seeming triumphant Evil. Here it is, that creed of mine, for what it's worth. I call it:

I BELIEVE IN DECENCY.

"I believe in Decency, and in those clean and kindly motives for which it stands.

"There is nothing sentimental about this belief. It is not based on 'wishful thinking.' I believe in Decency because history shows that it is Life's plan for Man . . . because history proves that Man moves constantly into a finer, fairer way of life.

"I believe in Decency as I believe in fresh air, pure water, wholesome food. These are part of the right plan for the body. And, by the same token, I believe that Decency is the right plan for the soul.

"Power-crazed men have tried to stamp out Decency in the past, as they are trying to stamp it out in the present. But they have never succeeded. Power and Brutality may have triumphed for awhile; but always, at long last, Decency has won. Always Humanity has limped forward to nobler, higher destinies.

"And so I am betting all I have and all I am on Decency today. The sky is dark. There is crookedness and corruption at home . . there is betrayal and brutality abroad. But beneath all this . . . and above all this . . Decency goes on!

"As the sap rises in the Spring . . . as the sleeping seeds come inevitably to bloom because it is the law of Life . . . so, I believe, Decency will triumph because it it the normal and inevitable law of the Soul.

"Ie believe in Decency as I believe in' Growth. Winter may come, but nothing has ever stopped the Spring. I believe in Decency as I believe in the Spring . . as I believe in the Dawn after the Darkness.

"I BELIEVE IN DECENCY AS THE NORMAL, INEVITABLE DESTINY OF MAN, AND NO MATTER HOW DARK THE IMMEDIATE PROSPECT, I BELIEVE THAT DECENCY WILL ALWAYS WIN."

That's the creed that's holding me steady through these dreadful days. I'm giving it to you for what it's worth.

Dies Vindicated.

The work of the Dies committee so often the butt of criticism and ridicule, all the way from President and Mrs. Roosevelt down, has proved its value to the country.

For years, Dies and his investigators have been telling us of fifth column and Trojan horse activities in the United States, naming names and dates and places. The committee is asking an additional hundred thousand dollars with which to establish local investigating agencies throughout the country, so that it may get closer to the scene where subversive activities may be in existence. This money, a mere drop in the bucket when all the enormous New Deal expenditures and appropriations are considered, should be granted. Dies has earned the right to be heeded.

Had Holland, Norway, Austria, and Poland possessed Dies committees a few years ago, and had these committees functioned as the one we have is functioning, it is possible Hitler never could have invaded those countries with such ease and quick success.—Ohio State Journal.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Inside reason why Edouard Daladier, once called the strong-man of France, was ousted from the cabinet was the fact that he wanted a separate peace with Germany.

He felt that France was hopelessly outnumbered and could count on no real support from the British. To date there are only 25,250 British soldiers fighting on French soil plus 350 planes, and Daladier was convinced that not much more would be forthcoming. Under the circumstances he was opposed to France holding the bag and proposed a separate peace which he thought could be favorable to France.

The reply of the French cabinet was Daladier's resignation as minister of foreign affairs.

After the French defeat in the Prussian war of 1870 and the fall of Napoleon III, the Empress Eugenie gave some cogent advice to M. Derdier, minister of foreign affairs in the new republican government. She said she did not care what form of government France followed, provided it did one thing—namely never wage war with Germany again without allies.

Today, many Frenchmen feel poignantly that this advice has been spurned; that they face a Germany twice as strong in manpower, far better equipped, and are surrounded by Germany, Italy and Spain, without any material help from their one ally.

Defender Knudsen.

WHEN William Knudsen, national defense co-ordinator, concentrates on a problem, he concentrates.

The other day Bob Horton, U. S. Maritime Commission press chief who has been lent to the defense committee, entered Knudsen's office to confer with him about a matter. The powerfully built General Motors head was deeply engrossed in a mass of papers. After a few minutes of waiting, Horton discreetly cleared his throat.

Knudsen responded, but not as the startled press man expected. Without looking up, Knudsen demanded, "Can you make tanks?"

"Er...No...I'm...," stuttered Horton.

Then see me some other time," rumbled Knudsen, still not looking up. "I'm looking for tank makers. As you go out, please tell the next man to come in."

War Notes.

REAL fact about the so-called Weygand Line is that it is not a fortified line, but a hastily thrown up series of gun emplacements. There are no pill-boxes, for the simple reason that you cannot construct concrete pill-boxes in so short a time . . . French machine-gun nests are made of sand-bags and branches, carefully camouflaged. The artillery emplacements are similar. . . . Reason Hitler has not used gas during his blitzkrieg is that his troops have been moving too fast; they would catch up with their own gas. Also gas would probable permeate Nazi tanks. . . . Gas is used in the slower type of stationary warfare, and if it settles down to this on the Western Front you can expect to see gas used almost any day.

President Works.

HOW does the president stand the tremendous strain of the war crisis? Here is the answer, as given by Miss Marguerite ("Missy") LeHand, his private secretary.

"The president is working much longer hours. He used to swim in the White House pool every day, but now it's cut down to three times a week.

"He would like to go to Hyde Park, but he has to stay close to base. He does get away for an occasional cruise down the Potomac, but in one case, when he had planned to stay away until bedtime Sunday evening, he told Captain Callahan to turn back early, so he could get some work done.

"The cruises refresh him remarkably. After a hard week, if he can get a single night's rest on the water—a good long rest—he comes back looking like a new man. As long as he has this capacity for a quick come-back, there seems to be no limit to his endurance.

"He works later in the evenings now, with bedtime more often at midnight, where is used to be eleven o'clock. But he has been greatly relieved in one way. People don't demand his personal attention so much. There aren't so many letters requiring his personal signature, and he is spared a lot of minor matters."

Miss LeHand's office opens directly off the president's. As she spoke, a chorus of laughter came from it. The president was conferring with the defense committee and the wise-crack was probably his own.

"He still keeps his good humor," remarked Miss LeHand, "but he is quieter. When he is troubled, he is quiet for long periods of time."

Chicago Line-Ups.

SPEAKER Bill Bankhead is in a direful predicament.

It's a White House secret, but the courtly-mannered and able Alabaman is the president's personal choice for keynoter at the Democratic convention — a high honor much sought after by a number of big shot party leaders. At least half a dozen are pulling every possible wire to land it.

But Bankhead, who can have it on a silver platter, doesn't know whether he wants it or not.

Reason for his dilemma is a virulent case of vice-presidentitis. Bankhead feels he is a strong second-place possibility and the keynote speech customarily is made by a dignitary who is not a candidate. For him to accept the role, therefore, would be an admission that he was out of the running. And Bankhead is anything but that. He is very much in the vice-presidential race.

Roosevelt picked Bankhead because he liked the Speaker's witty speeches at the last two Jackson Day banquets. But while flattered, the speaker is still undecided whether to accept the president's offer.

Note — Roosevelt's choice for permanent chairman of the convention is Senate Floor Leader Alben Barkley, 1936 keynoter and also a vice presidential hopeful, though not a very hot-and-bothered one. The president's choice for his floor manager is brainy little Senator Jimmy Byrnes, assisted by Senators Minton of Ind., Pepper of Fla., Lister Hill of Ala., and Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago.

Capital Chaff.

SUMMER heat has come to Washington, but not the new fiscal year. Result: no electric fans for the state department. The building has just had its wiring changed from direct to alternating current, but the money for new fans is not available until the new fiscal year, beginning July 1. . . . White House press conferences are drawing between 150 and 200 newsmen these days. . . . A friend tried to draw out Miss Marguerite LeHand, private secretary to the president, on the third term. Pointing to the White House rose gardens outside her window, he asked: "Do you expect to see the roses bloom again next year?" Miss LeHand replied: "Somewhere, yes."

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE settler's grave up on our hill is hidden now by a thick mat of oak sprouts, wild grape vines and briars. The growth is prodigious since these last warm showers. Orioles swing and sing; rabbits dart in and out; from the distant slope comes the mournful call of a turtle dove.

I followed an old logging trail into the levelier portion of the woods. Along the path, leaves of elm, white oak, sassafras and poplar were punctured and partly eaten. In places only the framework of the leaves was left—the strong midribs and lateral branches. Higher up, among more spreading limbs, even a worse condition showed. If things do not change, in another week the trees will be stripped as bare as in early April.

Walking slowly, I felt a maze of gauzy threads against my face, about my ears, across my naked arms. On my shoulders and against the front of my shirt dozens of inch-long measuring worms alighted. They hung suspended, each by a single thread, from twigs above. As I looked toward the light I saw literally thousands of thees green worms dangling like parachutists. They wriggled and snapped their bodies up and down as if to adjust a landing upon some unsuspecting leaf, where they might beg to devour.

I knew these worms were larvae of geometrid moths—insects with wings of leaden gray. They are peculiar in having two pairs of pro-legs and they move along by a looping movement, bringing the center of the body into a semi-circle. They can support their bodies perpendicularly or laterally from either end, by either the fore or aft pairs of legs.

They have enemies. Along this winding trail, flew birds with open mouths — back and forth, back and forth, until their hunger was satisfied, and the thousands of invading hordes were materially thinned. Time, too, works against their serious damage to the greenery and nature provides new leaves as an emergency measure.

Hours later I saw one lone worm dangling by a thirty-foot length of fine spun thread from the top of a maple in the yard. He swung to and fro, pendulum-like, slowly ascending as he seemed to chew again the useless end of the cable that held him. He never heard of Nylon—yet for centuries he has made and used an amazingly strong and elastic transcluscent thread. It seems a natural miracle.

GIANT SHOTGUN HAS 5 BARRELS

Anti-Aircraft Weapon Made By American Veteran Of Last War.

MACON, Ga. —(U P)— A Macon stockbroker, who shoots pigeons in his spare time, is awaiting word from Washington concerning an invention which, he says, would damage a flight of enemy warplanes as much as a shotgun blast does a covey of birds.

Norbert Dempsey, who served with the field artillery during the World war, has completed plans for a gigantic five-barreled shotgun which he asserts will bore a quarter-mile hole through the atmosphere. The plans have been sent to the war department.

Dempsey said he first conceived the idea while on a hunting trip.

"Why doesn't anti-aircraft fire work like this?" he asked himself as he reloaded his shotgun. "Shooting a plane with single shot or shrapnel is like shooting a dove with a rifle."

He devoted several months to a study of methods of fire and ordnance design, at an Atlanta gun shop, before making a final design for his proposed weapon. Army officials acknowleged receipt of the plans, and said they would receive careful study

According to Dempsey, the gun would have an effective range of 25,000 to 35,000 feet

Woman Makes Money Handling Calls For Others.

LONGMEADOW, Mass —(U P)— Answering other people's telephone calls can be turned into a profitable business.

Mrs. Helen S. Usher got the idea about two years ago, and with a battery of extension telephones at her home she handles after-hours calls for several Springfield fuel oil companies, acts as liaison agent for a Boston manufacturing concern and routs repair men in the middle of the night for emergency repair jobs.

This service, operated on a 24-hour basis, is growing rapidly, and Mrs. Usher plans to expand operations to incorporate the functions of waking tired business men by telephone and reminding forgetful patrons in advance of birthdays, wedding anniversaries and important business appointments.

Nazis Move Within 13 Miles of Capital

Berlin Announces River Seine Crossed In Several Places, One Allied Force Trapped Along Coast.

Seven transports, one of 500 tons, were said to have been sunk and 10 others damaged by bomb hits.

Fifty-nine Allied planes and three barrage balloons were reported destroyed in the past 24 hours as against three missing for the Germans.

Le Havre, one of the principal French harbors remaining in French hands, was bombed anew.

The high command acknowledged Allied air raids in western Germany last night and British attempts yesterday to attack Trondheim and Bergen, Norway. Twelve of the attacking planes were said to have been destroyed.

As for the raids on Germany proper:

"Enemy planes dropped bombs at random in western Germany on the night of June 11-12," the communique said, "incendiary bombs falling into the heart of one city."

Increasing confidence that the fall of the capital is imminent was reflected by comment in official circles indicating that the high command already is working beyond this immediate objective.

"The capture of Paris undoubtedly would have a devastating effect on enemy morale," an authorized source said, "but this is not the primary object of the great drive in the west. The real purpose is to crush our foes' armies completely and with the greatest possible dispatch."

French Armies Withdraw To Outskirts of Paris

(By International News Service)

PARIS—The French armies surrounding Paris withdrew to the very outskirts of the capital today and took up last-ditch positions to defend the city against the greatest attack of its long history.

From the west, east and north the valiant defenders fell back to prepared positions and while the roar of artillery was clearly heard from the nearly deserted boulevards, the "battle of Paris" got under way.

(Editor's note—The Germans announced capture of Rouen, cutting off Paris from Le Havre, and advance of motorized units to a point only 12½ miles from Paris on the northwest. The Nazis have crossed the Seine at several points below Rouen, Berlin asserted.)

The heaviest fighting of the war is now under way at Senlis, 33 miles from the Eiffel tower. Senlis suffered greatly in the last war and became Marshal Foch's headquarters in 1918. It was the closest point to Paris that the Germans ever attained in that conflict.

To the east of Paris, the French have now fallen back of the Marne, scene of the great battles of 1914 and 1918 when the Germans almost reached the capital.

In 1914, General Gallieni's "taxicab army" stemmed the German attack at the Marne and four years later the Allies, strengthened by fresh American troops, broke the back of the Teuton army at the same spot and began the closing phase of the war.

Today, the French fought along the Marne, for British contingents which succeeded in reaching France after the Flanders evacuation were believed concentrated only in the far west.

From Compiegne, Noyon, Soissons and Chateau Thierry—all names of fame in the last great conflict—the French fell back, bitterly resisting every foot of the way, but falling back none the less in the knowledge that only by creating a smaller, compact front on the very fringe of the city would there rest any hope of saving the city.

North of Senlis, there was in progress what an official French military spokesman described as a "grand battle." South of the Aisne and near the plateau of Soissons there was terrific fighting as well, with carnage spread across the wide flat area between La Ferte-Miton and Fere-En-Tardencis.

Thus the Germans mastered the Ardennes plateau and seized Meaux. Chateau Thierry and other points where so much blood was spilled a quarter of a century ago and is being spilled again now.

The French retreat is not without its strategy. The Germans, spokesmen admit, have thrown a wheel around Paris, but the French army is the hub of that wheel, and until the hub is broken, Paris cannot fall.

It is anticipated that the French withdrawals will continue until the high command has created an impregnable block of men and steel around the capital. The hope remains that the Germans eventually will exhaust themselves in pounding against this bulwark and finally give General Maxime Weygand his long-awaited chance to attack.

ALLIES STRIKE POINTS ALONG ITALIAN COAST

Duce's Bombers Raid British Naval Base at Malta With 'Apparent Results.'

a bombing raid on military objectives in northern Italy and a blanket embargo against all Italian exports.

In addition, striking back at Italy promptly and forcibly, the British and South African air forces attacked Italian bases, including airdromes, in Ethiopia.

Royal Air Force planes had bombed Italian Libya yesterday.

The United Press Cairo correspondent reported that Royal Air Force planes had bombed the main Italian air bases in Ethiopia yesterday, concentrating on grounded machines and gasoline and bomb dumps, and had returned to base without loss.

Announcement was made by British East African military headquarters, the Exchange Telegraph Nairobi correspondent reported, that heavy bombing planes of the South African air force heavily and successfully bombed Banda Hill and other military objectives in the Moyale area of southern Ethiopia, near the Kenya frontier, and returned without loss.

King George imposed the embargo on Italian exports by royal proclamation today. His proclamation came after the Italian coast had been mined by the British fleet.

Bridge Destroyed By Italian Troops.

TOURS, FRANCE—(AP)—Italian troops blew up a bridge at Vinti Mille on the French border in the Alps today after completing the mobilization of 60 to 70 divisions, a military commentator reported today.

(On the basis of an estimated strength of 15,000 men to a division, this would indicate the Italians had massed between 900,000 and 1,050,000 troops along France's southern frontier.)

News of the Italian military activity on France's new front in the south came as the French defenders of Paris took a determined stand along the Marne at Chateau-Thierry and at Meaux. Meaux is only 27 miles east of the heart of the capital and but 15 miles from the nearest suburbs.

South Africa Attacks Ethiopia.

PRETORIA, SOUTH AFRICA—(AP)—The first South African war communique said today:

"South African air force heavy bombers yesterday attacked military objectives in Abyssinia. (Ethiopa.)

"Extensive damage to buildings, personnel, roads and equipment was done."

Abyssinia is the Italian-held African kingdom of the former Emperor Haile Selassie, conquered by the Italians in 1936.

U. S. Ships Barred From Mediterranean.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Complete revision of United States shipping routes to Europe was necessitated today after President Roosevelt closed the Mediterranean to American-flag vessels.

Only ports on the western coast of Portugal and Spain and a short strip on the northern shore of the latter country remained open to American vessels plying between this country and Europe after the president extended the "belligerent zone" last night in a proclamation issued under the neutrality act. A strip on the coast of African Morocco was blocked, too, as was the eastern entrance to the Red Sea.

The president's action was taken as the result of Italy's entrance into the war. The once-quiet Mediterranean now has become the center of naval warfare between the empire of Mussolini and Britain and France, making its waters dangerous to peaceful commercial vessels.

According to estimates, at least 45 vessels that have been plying in the lucrative U. S.-southern Europe trade, now will be barred from the Mediterranean.

It is expected that some of these vessels now will be placed in service between New York and open Spanish and Portuguese ports. Some, however, probably will be laid up, or transferred to other parts of the world, because of the diminished trade that is virtually certain to result from their inability to carry on commerce directly with the Mediterranean countries and the Near East.

HELIUM PLANT IN FULL BLOOM

Tourist Convinced It Must be Pretty Posey.

AMARILLO, Tex.—(AP)—A tourist asked a hotel manager what attractions the city offered.

"A helium plant," replied the hotel man—"the only one of its kind in the world."

The tourist thanked him and said "I hope it is in full bloom."

Helium is a gas used in dirigibles.

BALKANS FEAR TURKISH ENTRY

Small Nations Hope to Stay Neutral, Look to Russia For Intervention.

where the government stepped up its military preparations yesterday by ordering the class of 1934 to report for "periodical training."

Reports of British aerial activity over Italian bases in North Africa and of Italian air raids on Britain's naval stronghold at Malta forecast a rapid development of the conflict in the Mediterranean area.

Diplomatic circles anxiously debated whether the conflicting interests of Russia, Germany and Italy in the Danubian region would be likely to serve as a stabilizing influence or to hasten possible spread of war.

All quarters seemed agreed, however, that if Josef Stalin indicated to Turkey that her entry into the war would be the signal for Russian intervention in behalf of the Rome-Berlin axis, Turkey would have no course but to keep out.

There have been some indications that Russia was steering away from the axis, but the recent resumption of normal diplomatic relations between Rome and Moscow cast fresh doubt here on Stalin's intentions.

Four Killed In Bombing of Geneva.

BULLETIN

BERN—(AP)—The federal government of Switzerland announced officially today that examination of aeriel bombs which killed four persons and wounded many others around Lake Leman this morning showed them to be of British origin.

GENEVA —(INS)—Four persons were killed and at least 18 were wounded today when unidentified warplanes bombed Geneva, seat of the League of Nations, and the railway station of Renens near Lausanne.

Whether Italian planes carried out the attack was not known.

On the Swiss bank of Lake Geneva, eight bombs fell on the Renens station, killing two persons, an official statement said. In Geneva itself, a soldier and a woman were killed and 18 persons were wounded.

Swiss military authorities announced the violation of Switzerland's neutrality occurred during the early hours of the morning.

Five bombs fell on Geneva, which was fully lighted, damaging houses near a quay on the River Arve.

Two air raid warnings were sounded, marking the first time Geneva has been "alerted" since the European war began.

Despite the bombing there was no panic among the population, which remained calm.

Anti-aircraft guns went into action against the raiders, which also dropped two bombs outside Geneva as well as those which fell on Geneva itself.

Widespread anger was aroused by the attack, which damaged a number of houses.

Bombs also were dropped at other points around Lake Geneva, it was reported. One fell at Renens.

by Lee Hershner of Mt. Vernon collided.

He was held in city jail last night. No affidavit was made out until this morning, however, when he was charged with unsafe driving. His case was continued until 1 p. m. Friday. The affidavit was signed by Hershner.

Taylor was arrested by patrolmen at 11:15 p. m. yesterday on route 42 on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol. He was fined $50 and costs and had his driver's license suspended for one year when arraigned in municipal court this morning. Howard McIntire, Mansfield, arrested on the same charges on June 8, was fined $50 and costs with a year's suspension of driver's license.

2 Persons Hurt.

Two persons suffered minor injuries in another accident at 9:40 p. m. yesterday on route 42 at the intersection of Cook road and Lexington road, involving cars driven by W. S. Valmore, R. D. 5, Mansfield, and Garth D. Roop, jr., of Galion, according to patrolmen. Martha J. Schneigelsberg of Galion, riding with Roop, received a possible nose fracture and Valmore received minor cuts and abrasions. Miss Schenigelsberg was treated at General hospital.

Patrolmen said Valmore was making a left turn and both cars collided as they swerved to avoid each other.

DIES IN EAST

Funeral for Anthony Rinella To Be Held In Mansfield.

Anthony Rinella, former Mansfield resident, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Josephine Malene, in Albion, Pa., early this morning after a lingering illness.

He was born in Sicily, Italy, and came to this country in 1864. He was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church while he resided in this city.

Surviving him are four sons and three daughters, two of whom live in Mansfield. They are A. C. Rinella, Mansfield, Joseph, of Girard, Pa., Mathew of Greenville, Peter, of Meadville, Pa., Mrs. Malene at whose home he died, Mrs. Mary Barantte, East Springfield, Pa., and Mrs. Daniel Fusco, Mansfield.

The body is at the Finefrock funeral home, but will be taken Thursday noon to the home of A. C. Rinella, 295 West Third street. Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Friday at St. Peter's, with Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiating.

YOUNG LORAIN GIRL KILLED

Police Chief Investigates Murder Theory.

LORAIN —(AP)— Velma Erickson, pretty 16-year-old high school graduate, died in a hospital today a few hours after she accepted an automobile ride home from a restaurant.

Police Chief Theodore Walker said he would "proceed on the theory she had been murdered" unless Coroner S. C. Ward's autopsy showed otherwise.

FRENCH MAKING GALLANT STAND

have they the reserve strength necessary? We shall have to wait and see.

If Weygand can hold not only Paris but his lines along the Marne and Seine rivers it may be the turning point of the war.

If the Germans exhaust themselves in this assault, their position will become decidedly uncomfortable, since Hitler is believed to have thrown into this drive virtually every ounce of strength he posseses.

Even the capture of Paris wouldn't mean success for the German fueherer, unless in the process he crushed the French armies.

We shall get action in this southern war zone soon enough. The closure of the Suez canal to Italian shipping has immediately raised difficulties for Mussolini. He has depended on the canal to reach Ethiopia and his possessions on the Red sea.

One would expect heavy fighting to develop in this area. Not only must Mussolini keep this gateway open for his own uses, but he wants to close it to the British, thereby forcing them to use the long sea route around South Africa to reach the Far East. This would, of course, be a grave blow to England and the Allied cause.

EX-MINISTER SENTENCED

AKRON—(U P)—Ernest E. Emig, former minister, was under sentence today to serve a 10 to 25-year term in Ohio penitentiary for robbery of a gasoline filling station March 30.

THEATERS

Famous Film Remade.

"Bill of Divorcement" is one of the top ranking pictures of the past decade that has been made into talkie twice, and this time with a cast that includes Maureen O'Hara, Adolphe Menjou as the shell-shocked veteran, Fay Bainter as the mother and Herbert Marshall as the man the mother loves. Miss O'Hara plays the role created by Katherine Hepburn and Menjou has the John Barrymore role. Also on the Madison bill for the last of the week is "You Can't Fool Your Wife" with Lucille Ball and James Ellison.

Held Over.

"My Favorite Wife" is being held over at the Ohio for at least two days, and possibly through Friday. It was almost certain to be a hold-over picture in Mansfield where Irene Dunne and Cary Grant are decided favorites. Their latest romantic comedy is frankly improbable but lots of fun; improbable that four people could take so lightly events that would have been a tragedy to most people. Randolph Scott and Gail Patrick round out a popular screen foursome.

Parole Evils.

J. Edgar Hoover's story of the evils of the parole system, as told in "Parole Fixer," is an attraction at the Ritz theater for three days, starting tomorrow. Virginia Dale and William Henry are featured. "Gaucho Serenade" brings the popular Gene Autry to the Ritz for the last half of the week in a story of false imprisonment an English boy seeking his father and two cowboys stranded in New York City.

Scotland Yard Man.

Another thrill-packed wedding scene is depicted in "Bulldog Drummond's Bride," but this time Phyllis gets her man. In this series of picture dramas revolving around the great English sleuth, there have been many interrupted weddings for Bulldog and Phyllis, but in this one he traces down the loot of a bank robbery through his marriage. John Howard and Heather Angel head the cast. The Three Mesquiteers in "Heroes of the Saddle" is the second film at the Park.

Romantic Triangle.

Robert Taylor and Greer Garson are teamed in "Remember?" aromatic triangle in which the handsome Taylor is a high powered advertising executive who is too busy to take his bride on a honeymoon. Miss Garson, remembered for her Kathie in "Mr. Chips," plays a modern, fun-loving girl, with Lew Ayres as the third member of the triangle. Mickey Rooney in "Judge Hardy and Son" rounds out the Majestic bill.

Shelby Council Gets Health Board Measure Monday.

SHELBY—Legislation to create a city board of health will be presented at the regular session of city council at 6:30 p. m. Monday at city hall.

Action to form the board again here after it had been abandoned last year was taken by health officials and Mayor W. B. Morris at a conference here Tuesday at city hall.

The Shelby Public Health league, an organization through which the health problems of the city had been handled, will continue to function in conjunction with the new health board, Mayor Morris stated.

Appointments on the new health board will be announced by Mayor Morris at the council session. City council will be asked to confirm the appointments as made by Mayor Morris.

10 FIRMS OFFER BIDS ON WATER LINE PROJECTS

Contracts to Be Awarded Soon On Main Extensions to Be Made on 11 Streets.

City officials had under consideration today bids submitted by 10 firms on a quantity of pipe and fittings to be purchased for extensions in the municipal water distribution system.

The bids, opened Monday by the board of control were tabulated yesterday by city engineers. Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said it would probably be several days before contracts would be let.

Three firms submitted proposals on 3,600 feet of various size cast iron pipe while seven firms bid on delivery of 17 valves and 15 different size valve boxes.

A proposal entered by the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry company, Chicago, was rejected, Crafton said, because the firm failed to enclose a check drawn on an Ohio bank with their bid.

Low bidder on the valves and valve boxes was the Central Foundry company, New York City, asking a price of $4,924. Its bid was $58 lower than the closest competitor, James B. Clow and Son, Chicago, bidding $4,982.10. The American Cast Iron Pipe company, Cleveland, quoted a price of $5,318.30.

Of the seven firms submitting proposals on the pipe, the Hughes Supply company, Mansfield, and the Mueller comany, Louisville, Ky., were low with identical bids of $487.30.

Other bidders were A. P. Smith company, East Orange, N. J., $492; Hardware and Supply company, Akron, $497.90; Darling Valve Manufacturing company, Williamsport, Pa., $498.45; Rensselear Valve Manufacturing company, Troy, N. Y., $512.89. The Crane company, Cleveland, entered an incomplete bid of $415.75.

The supplies are being purchased for the construction of main extensions on sections of Overlook avenue, Fairlawn avenue, Yale drive, Greenlawn avenue, Superior street, East Raleigh avenue, Andover road, Overlook road, Coleman road, Winwood drive, and Bowman street between West Fourth and West Sixth streets.

Officials have already called for bids on the trenching to be done on the streets with the exception of Bowman street project which will be completed by WPA as part of the West Fourth street extension now under construction.

City council authorized the construction work at a meeting last month and set up $9,000 to meet the expense.

PUTS LETTER TO ACID TEST

Student Returns Recommendation To Man Who Wrote It.

LAWRENCE, Kans. —(AP)— There is a Kansas University student who thinks he has the world's best letter of recommendation.

A couple of years ago, the youth worked for a transportation company during his summer vacation washing cars. When he resigned, the personnel manager gave him a glowing letter of recommendation.

The student will complete his law course this spring. He plans to send his application for a job along with the letter, back to the personnel manager who wrote it.

MISSING MODEL SETS NEW MARK

Miniature Plane Travels 38 Miles From Point Of Takeoff.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(INS)—One Sunday afternoon Bernard Collins shot his prize-winning model airplane into the air and when it landed, "he knew not where."

Collins sent the plane into the air during an endurance flight contest. For nine minutes and 45 seconds it circled above and then straightening out of a bank, headed eastward toward the sea until lost from sight.

At the end of a record-breaking flight the plane landed on the North river at Marshfield, Mass., approximately 38 miles from the takeoff. A passerby observed the landing, rescued the plane and turned it over to Brockton police. During an exchange of prosaic teletype messages, Massachusetts State police informed the Providence police of the "rescue." The plane was returned intact to its anxious owner.

The model plane was powered by a miniature gasoline motor which kept it aloft after it had been shot into the sky by a powerful rubber-band sling.

HAUNTED

Police Take No Chances With Package That Hums.

DALLAS, Tex.—(INS)—The radio companies' stunt of advertising their portable sets by delivering them tuned to the broadcast-wavelength of a station near the recipient, doesn't always work out as planned.

Dallas express company officials found a sinister-looking package which was giving out a humming sound. Noticing there was a warning not to open the package, they sent for the police.

It might not have been a bomb, but the police didn't take any chances. They held it under water until the humming stopped.

The company had to send out a new radio.

NEW DOCTORS FOR AVIATION

Care And Feeding Of Pilots Now Special Medical Field.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. —(AP)— Intensive aviation has brought a specialized field of medicine—that of the flight surgeon.

"We have to be practically pilots as well as physicians," says Col. Robert C. Murphy of the army air depot here. He explains that the examining doctor must understand the reactions of his patients to flight tactics as well as the handling of machine guns, bomb releases, etc.

Periodic examination of pilots is not only good for the men but is good business in protection of the government's heavy investment in planes, he says.

CHAPTER XXXIV

There was no one in the large room upstairs overflowing with the wraps of Barney's guests. Brooke removed her borrowed wrap, pinned Julian's orchids to the shoulder of her dress and sat down at the dressing table. A little time in which to prepare herself for the continued misunderstanding between Julian and herself. Never had she felt less in a party mood.

When some one knocked she rose quickly.

"Brooke?"

It was Barney.

Opening the door, she saw that he was looking more serious than usual as he stood aside with a cigar in one hand and a glass in the other.

"Let's go over here," he said, nodding across the hall.

They went to his study.

"Rod's back," he said without preface. "Miss Short, my secretary, told me. I'd have known anyway because I was called for a reference."

"Irene is going to Reno this week," Brooke said.

Barney raised bushy brows. "Is she? Not surprised. Expected that but not quite this soon. Couldn't last. I knew it. And dam it, I'd like to have Rod back with me. Best man I ever had. The best worker, and dependable. But the talk . . . Well, I might later." He grinned. "When you and he are married . . ."

She looked at him, her eyes bright with anger. "Why do you think I still want to marry him? People can change. I have! No, it's Julian, Barney. And I didn't even like Julian very much at first. Now . . . Must I marry Rod because every one expects me to . . . Even Julian?"

Barney wagged his head. Obviously he was enjoying himself.

"Are you asking me?" He went to her and looked straight at her. "Rod's caused a hell of a lot of trouble. The funny part is that I don't think he meant to."

"He is ashamed and he'd give anything in the world to be back with you."

"Might be done yet."

"Your heart is as soft as mine."

He laughed. "Don't tell anybody that. Julian's damned hardheaded. Let's go downstairs."

She would never remember the names of the people she met that night, and only vaguely would she remember their faces. It was as if she were seeing a motion picture and the operator was running the film too fast.

She talked to Wilson Stone and the attractive, red-haired Denny, his wife, hearing more about their adored first-born. She danced with a succession of young men and answered them in stock phrases, conscious only of Julion as he moved here and there about the large room, smiling his clean swift smile, holding a lighter to somebody's cigarette, lifting a glass to his mouth.

When finally she danced with Julian, then sat beside him and ate with him, he was a charming stranger. They had ceased to have anything to talk about when he thought she was going to marry Rod.

They were among the last to go, leaving Barney, the genial host who knew that his party had been a success, standing in the doorway.

The storm had ceased, leaving the night clear. Brooke thought, "If it had not rained, we could have walked outside away from all those people and perhaps..."

But Julian spoke evenly. "Barney said that in time he would take Rod back into the company. He'll have an excellent opportunity there. Rod's a good man. I'm told, thorough and efficient and honest."

Yes, Rod was like that, she thought. A skilled robot who had gone awry once in his life . . .

She said quietly, "Barney is a wonderful friend."

A long time passed before Julian said, looking ahead, "The first time I saw you I was with Barney. We talked about you and Rod then, Barney knowing about Irene, of course. I looked at you and you were radiantly happy that night. But you were such a little girl . . ."

He paused but did not look at her. "Then ."You were in love with love. Brooke, with Rod's good looks and with all the fine things your imagination had created over a period of years when he was away from you. If he disappointed you, you excused him. You weren't, you see, in love with a man, a human being. That's why I say that you were such a little girl . . ."

He paused again and continued slowly. "The next time I saw you the dream was beginning to turn to reality. You saw your fine young knight in armor infatuated with a wise and amusing woman. The next time I saw you the dream had become a nightmare. I wouldn't let you talk about it, if you remember, and I wouldn't be a shoulder for you to cry on though I was glad when you told me you had one friend, Jim Bartlett, upon whose shoulder I was certain you'd been crying.

"I don't know what happened to you when you went away. But you came back a whole person. You were real and gallant. You had faced facts. I don't minimize what happened between you and Rod. Your love was your life and you lost something to worship. But I saw you growing up and I tried to help by not sympathizing with you. Others had done that. I didn't make love to you. It was difficult not to. You've been the very essence of life for me from the very beginning.

"Go on, Julian."

"I loathe talk. But it's now or never! Perhaps never would be much better!"

She saw the lights of the city reluctantly. There wasn't much time left for talk.

He said, "I thought you'd gotten over it. Outgrown is a better word. Because you are superior to him. I've talked with him and since I've known you it seemed impossible that you two could have been in harmony in any way."

"Love doesn't explain itself when you are very young."

He said nothing more until he stopped the car before the hotel and turned to her.

* * *

"Brooke, the first time I saw you I wanted you. The second time I saw you I wanted to marry you." He smiled. "The thing you felt between us that you didn't understand was that." He drew back. "Now will you go?"

Her voice shook. "Now I won't go!"

"Very well." He smiled again. "You'll have all of it—a girl who is going to rush into matrimony in only six weeks. I don't know why I am telling you. I suppose that's the lawyer's training—to explain himself, present his case fully. But I think I've made a pretty thorough job of it already . . . I love you and I've stayed away from you. In Maine, though nothing was said, I felt we were very close to each other. When you left and I stayed on, we were still close. I remained there when I wanted to come back to you. Nothing is sillier looking than a man sincerely and passionately in love. I've been wearing that silly look for weeks now. And tonight . . . tonight I wanted to walk out into Barney's garden and put my arms around you and tell you that I was terribly in love with you. Now will you go?"

"No."

"There's a law against parking here."

"You could drive around the block."

"And prolong it? I won't. You want to be very gentle and kind to me." His mouth curved. "I won't allow it, my darling. I don't even look glum, I hope. Do you mind if I don't take you in?"

"Julian . . ."

"No!" He got out, circled the car and opened the door for her. "Good night and good-bye, Brooke."

She went without a protest, lightheaded, wondering how she could be happy when he had said good-bye. All the things he had said were echoing in her mind.

AMPHIBIAN TANK BUILT

Monster War Machine For Navy Would Carry 40 Persons.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—(U.P.)—A monster war-machine, an amphibian tank capable of carrying 40 soldiers or 7,000 pounds of cargo, is being built here by Donald Roebling, under a navy department contract.

Roebling, who had built two similar tanks for Red Cross and Coast Guard rescue work, has switched his attention from mercy to war at the request of navy officials. After witnessing demonstrations in which the early tanks splashed through water, climbed steep banks and moved swiftly through dense underbrush, they commissioned him to build an experimental naval tank.

The navy men believed that the machine might be used to transport men and supplies from ship to shore where favorable landing conditions are not available. Materials for the $25,000 model have already been ordered.

The machine probably will be similar in design to the amphibians already completed. Traction for the machines is furnished by wide caterpillar treads which grip soggy mud almost as easily as solid earth. They have a land speed of 25 miles an hour and a water speed of 8½ miles an hour.

CURRENT SHIFT

Japanese Drift Gets Closer To Mainland.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—(U.P.)—Recent mild winters on the British Columbia coast are further evidence that the Japanese current is shifting closer to the mainland, according to David B. Levake, amateur meteorologist and oceanographer, and engineer on an American oil tanker plying Pacific waters.

For the last four years Levake has taken temperatures of Pacific waters as he has sailed up and down the coast.

"The temperatures from Cape Blanco north have become higher during the last two years," he said. "There is little difference in summer and winter, the average now being 60 degrees where it was previously 48 degrees.

"Off the California coast the temperature of the water has been dropping."

Governor Repays Man Who Helped Him at College

MT. STERLING, Ky.—(AP)—John Petro, local restaurateur who befriended Senator A. B. Chandler while the latter was in college, is the proudest man in Mt. Sterling.

One of the last official acts of Chandler after he resigned the governorship of Kentucky to become U. S. Senator was to appoint Petro a brigadier-general on the governor's staff.

Back in 1911, while Petro, a native of Greece, had a restaurant in Lexington, Chandler entered the University of Kentucky without much money. Petro gave the youth plenty to eat "because I liked him and thought he was a nice fellow."

The commission of brigadier-general was the only one of its kind conferred by Chandler while he was governor.

IT'S SHOCKING

He's Going To Do His Own Bath Singing After This.

WALSENBURG, Colo.—(AP)—From now on Jack Johnson, 17, will do his own singing in the bath tub.

Letting a portable radio set do it for him, he scrubbed himself contentedly until soap got into his eyes. He reached for a towel, and knocked the radio into the tub.

It charged the water with electricity, paralyzing Johnson. A brother heard his moans and rescued him.

"SICKEST MAN"

DETROIT—(AP)—Otto Fischl, Detroit's "sickest man," is dead. A heart attack proved fatal to the city health department employe who since 1923 had simulated illness to trap quacks and unlicensed doctors.

SET DEADLINE TO PAY CASH ON ASSESSMENTS

Auditor Notifies 200 That July 6 Last Day to Pay Street Charges.

More than 200 property owners on nine streets were notified by City Auditor Paul L. Kelley today that they have until July 6 to make cash settlements on special assessments levied to finance improvements on the streets last year.

Citing the saving of interest charges by payment before the deadline, Kelley said payments would be received at his office at City Hall. After the deadline they will be certified to the county auditor for collection on the tax duplicate, he said.

The assessments total $24,747, of which $21,287 is for paving, resurfacing and the construction of curb and gutters, and $3,460 for sanitary sewer installation.

The paving projects include Woodward avenue, $7,750; Lawnview avenue, $3,067, and Fairlawn avenue, $6,272.

Resurfacing was done on Augustine avenue at a cost of $1,680 to the property owners, and on Second avenue at the cost of $1,167. Construction of curb and gutters on Coleman road were assessed at a total of $1,350.

Sanitary sewer construction included Cook road, $2,180; Chilton avenue, $680, and an alley off of Central avenue, $600.

The city's share of the cost on all the improvements totaled $6,504, a total of $6,426 spent on street construction and $78 on sanitary sewer projects.

TWO ALIENS

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A survey of the city's 10,500 employes revealed only two aliens on the payrolls, Mayor Harold H. Burton was told.
